Building a life

1997 Antioch grad remembered for football plays, catching Muskies and a life he was just beginning

By KENNETH PATCHEN Staff Reporter

In his 18 years, Jason Alan Bolton put together a real life filled with adventures, close friendships, love for his family and the outdoors, and dedication to his responsibilities.

He could inspire teammates, call a duck, play hurt, take it apart and put it together, and help other people. His life was full, tall, and deep.

Jason Bolton died Jan. 15 of a heart attack and left behind family and friends filled with warm memories of their moments with him. He died at the University of Illinois at Chicago Medical Center after a sudden illness.

Born in Waukegan on Aug. 4, 1979, Jason Bolton was a life-long resident of Antioch. He had played football at Antioch Community High School and was currently employed with Abbott Labs where he started work recently as a pipe fitter in maintenance. He was looking forward to a long career with one of Lake County's largest, international employers.

"He lived everyday to the fullest," said father Keith Bolton.

"He went out of his way to help people," said Brian Dembinski, a close friend.

"If he said he was going to do something, he'd do it," said friend Dan Wiegel. "For him, it was always actions, not words."

"There was nothing ever bad about him. He was a quality kid," said Ed Dembinski of his son's friend. "Everything I did know about him was all positive."

Wiegel said, "He was the most honest guy I knew."

Jason Bolton was an outdoorsman, a sportsman, a person who liked to build things, who liked to be active. He helped people with class studies. He helped Junior Varsity members learn football. "He was the most unselfish person on the line," said Wiegel. "He'd absorb the doubleteam." That helped smaller players next to him.

Jason Bolton started with baseball his freshman and sophomore year at ACHS. He moved on to football where he seriously hurt his knee, went through reconstructive knee surgery, and spent time bringing himself back to a point where he could serve as defensive end or outside linebacker. Friend Jason Ultes said, "He was on the weight-deck (conditioning area) all summer long. Doctors said he might not be able to play senior year. He had a great year his senior year."

Dembinski said Jason was intense on the field. "He got the job done." No better event summed it up for him than a play Bolton made against Zion's football team.

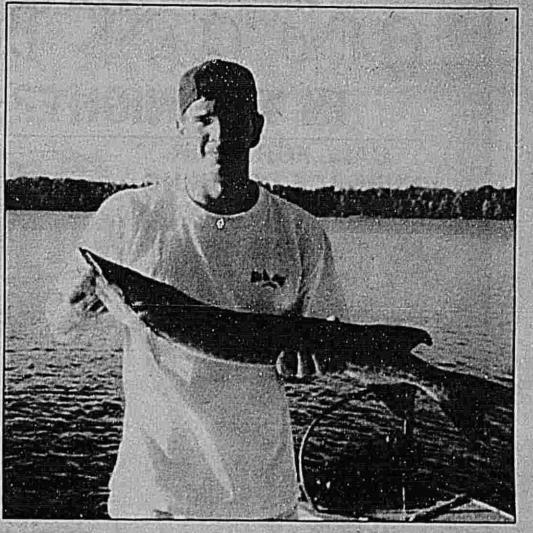

"When we played Zion last year, night game, we were down 14 to nothing," said teammate Dembinski. "Zion had the ball, and they were driving in to score again. The Zion quarterback dropped back for a pass. All of a sudden, Bolton just popped out of the line of scrimmage, and sacked their quarterback."

As Dembinski recalled what happened, he said that Jason got the tackle, stood up, and walked to the huddle for the next play. No dancing. "He stopped Zion," he said. "We came back and went into overtime." The impact of the Zion quarterback sack was not immediate, but it was long term. "After that game, we won five games straight." "That was a big play," said father

Keith Bolton. "That made him dig it

Bolton left behind older memories of his younger baseball years for friends. Ultes will always remember one ball Bolton blasted. "We were sophomores in high school at a Grayslake high school baseball game. He hit the longest home run I've ever

Above, Jason Bolton shows off the Muskie he caught while fishing with friends in Hayward, Wis., last summer. The 18-year-old Antioch graduate was an avid fisherman who was working at Abbott Labs. He died following a sudden illness last week. Right, his high school graduation photo-Photo provided by friend Neil Hansen, who said, "at least he got his Muskie."

Antioch boasts Wisconsin State Champ

Gymnast, 12, earns all-around honors

By KENNETH PATCHEN Staff Reporter

Out of enjoyment for the rough and tumble of an Antioch childhood has emerged a 1997 Wisconsin State Champion All Around Gymnast.

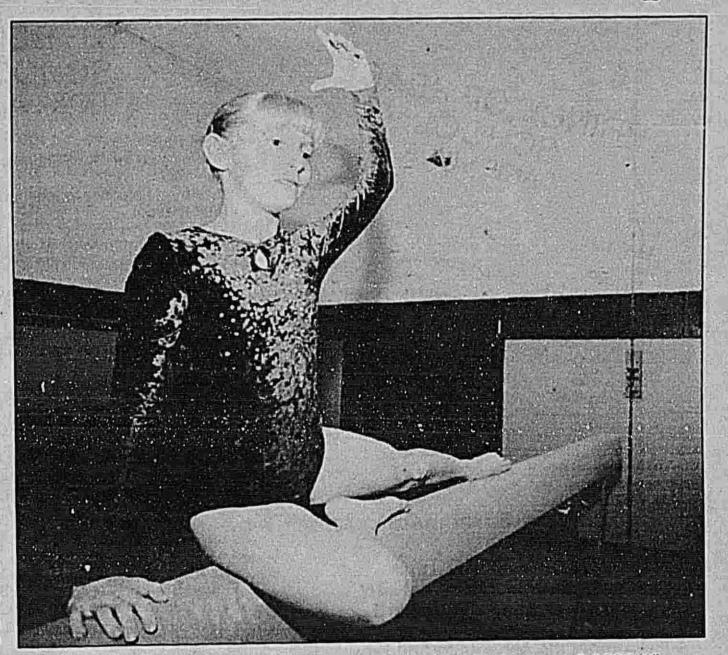

Jenna Diemer, 12, of Emmons School, took first place in the USA Gymnastics Level 6 1997 Wisconsin State Championships for all around performance Dec. 20, 1997.

Diemer won the championship with her own personal best score of 35.95. It is a combination of scores from individual events in which she placed first in both uneven bars and floor routines, and second place in both vault and balance beam routines.

"We were doing good routines on every event," she said about the team members at the state championship event. "I felt good." The whole team felt good, apparently, because the team itself also placed first at the meet. The season was prelude. They won six of their last seven competitions in fall, 1997.

Diemer is part of a team from Scamps Gymnastics in Kenosha, Wis. She has worked on her skills for about five years. "I always liked to flip my body around," she said of the origins of her interest in gymnastics. "I started tumbling classes." That led to an interest in bars and apparatus which eventually led to Scamps Gymnastics. She has two coaches there, Randy Anderson and Amy Cronin. The teams they have built have been consistently

St. Peter School invites community in

By KENNETH PATCHEN Staff Reporter

Antioch parents may explore facilities and meet St. Peter School faculty in a variety of formats and times during Catholic Schools Week, Jan.

"It's an opportunity to open doors to welcome people and show them what we do in a Catholic school," said Principal Patricia Dieveney. She said that the school has strong academic programs that prepare students for the future. "It is Catholic, so they are receiving a Christian values-oriented education every day," she said.

The school will host an open house after the 9:30 a.m. Mass on Sunday, Jan. 25 at St. Peter Church. "At the Sunday open house, people can apply for registration," Dieveney said.

There will be special programs at the school during the remainder of the week. The special programs celebrate the contributions of parish and pastoral members, faculty and staff, school volunteers, parents, and students.

'We want people to feel welcome, to feel that we have good teachers, and that the children like being here, (that) they feel comfort-able being here," Dieveney said. There are 285 students at the school, twelve classrooms and teachers, and additional part-time teachers who offer music, sports, art, and computer education. "The special teachers are incorporated in the regular curriculum," she said.

Parents who visit the school can observe student-teacher interaction. "Our teachers keep abreast of what is going on in education today," Dieveney said. St. Peter School students usually attend Antioch Community High School or Carmel High School in Mundelein.

Monday, Jan. 26 features a 9:30 a.m. prayer service in the Church. At 1 p.m. there is a school assembly that celebrates differences among people. Spelling bee finals will be held for grades 1 to 8 on Tuesday, Jan. 27 in the Gymnasium at 1 p.m. Also on Tuesday is a freeskate at the Round Lake Roller Rink from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. for children in grades 6 through Wednesday, Jan. 28 features an all-school "Old Movie Afternoon." That evening, grades kindergarten through 2 have a freeskate at Round Lake Roller Rink

Thursday, Jan. 29 features an open house from 9:30 to 11:15 a.m. for everyone interested to know more about the school. Teachers and able for conversation. Parents may eat a $1.50 spaghetti lunch with their children from 11:20 to 12:15 p.m. However, parents should notify the school of their intention to eat lunch by Jan. 16. Grades 3 to 5 are scheduled for a freeskate at Round Lake Roller Rink from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Students will wear school colors, blue and white, Friday, Jan. 30. A Faculty-Student Volleyball game is scheduled for 1 p.m.

BOLTON: Young life remembered by friends seen a high school kid hit. It was like probably 380 to 400 feet. The fence was there, and it was way over the fence. That hit was great; it was so awesome. They went and got the ball and gave it to him."

Keith Bolton and his son spent much time outdoors together. "He hunted with me since he was 6 years old," he said. He was a good hunter and he learned to do it all well. "(Jason) was an excellent caller. He practiced his (duck) calls." He learned taxidermy. Hunting and fishing were important in his life and Jason invested the time to master their craft. "This final year he got two geese, 12 pounds. Canadians. He was proud of

"He was particularly a Muskie fisherman," said Keith Bolton. "He had all the gear." Wiegel said, "We did a lot of fishing together." In June a group of friends went north to fish. "He was the only one of us to catch a Muskie. He knew what he was doing." Wiegel said, "That was probably one of his best times ever." Bolton caught the Muskie the night before they left their cabin. "He let that one go."

Jason Bolton loved motocross. One Sunday, Jason and brother Brian picked up some bikes and started riding. No fear. "They were both rid-ing on the edge," said father Keith of his sons. If they fell off. They got up, got back on, and went to it. Broken bones never bothered Jason. "He was tough as a nail," Keith said. The brothers did that for three years.

"They were the best of buddies."

In high school Bolton used his skills for taking things apart and putting them back together to everyone's advantage. He liked to work on cars and did many friendly repairs. He was in the Chicago Area BEST Robotics competition. "He played a big part in building that robot," said Dembinski. "He was good with technology." Father Keith Bolton said, "He let the brains figure out the electrical stuff." Jason put it all physically together so their robot would work and win.

"He actually fixed my snowmobile for me," said Ultes of the inoperable vehicle he acquired. "It took him 10 minutes. It still works. He just looked at it, knew what was wrong, went home and got one thing, and then he fixed it."

What does father Keith Bolton remember most of their life together? He remembers Jason's attitude towards doing something. He would work on things. He wouldn't quit. He would work on things to learn how to do it. "He was so self-motivated that no one had to push him," said Keith Bolton.

Jason worked with his dad for quite a while at Bolton Plumbing. He worked for Colette Plumbing Co., too. Recently he was working at Abbott Labs at The Park. He liked the people that he was with and he liked the work he was doing. He thought he had a great job. "He was doing well there," said Keith Bolton of his son's new work life. Jason was looking for a long career there. It seemed reasonable that he would followthrough on plans to go further with an engineering education while at Abbott.

In 18 years, Jason Bolton got all the essential pieces of a life together and built one that was full, tall, and deep. For everyone he touched, it just was not long enough.

Survivors include his parents, Keith and Gail (Kumpfer) Bolton, one brother, Brian (Jennifer) Bolton and one sister Lindsay Bolton both of Antioch, his maternal grandparents, Al and Joanne Kumpfer of Murray, Kentucky, one nephew Jared Bolton and his special friend Tony, and other rel-atives. He was preceded in death by his paternal grandparents, Arnold and Julie Bolton.

Those wishing to make contributions to the Antioch High School Football Mothers Program, in his memory, may send it to ACHS, 1133 Main Street, Antioch, 60002. It is an organization that takes care of the incidentals of being a high school football player. There were more than a dozen moms involved in helping their sons be ready for football. Mother Gail Bolton was there every day as part of the group.

Barber predicts 26-14 Pack win elief in Green Bay Packers must not be any more fervent than at the Lake Area Barber Shop, 425 Lake Street. Don Kerkman was asked who he figured would win the Jan. 25 game. He said with a look of astonishment, "The Packers!" It's hard not to see that he likes the team if you are in the chair. "I'll be going out there to watch," he said.

Arnold Schulmelster will keep things going while Don is away. No. Kerkman does not have tickets to the game. Those may become available when he gets there, he expects. Kerkman said that he has noticed that some Chicago Bears fans are now rooting for a central league victory. He said, "26-14."

St. Peters Catholic Church will host a blood drive Saturday, Jan. 24 from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Social Center Gymnasium, 557 West Lake Street. It takes 45 minutes and it is safe. Eligible donors are at least 17, 110 pounds, and in good health. Allergies, asthma, or high blood pressure do not rule out healthy donors. Eat well and drink fluids before donating. Walk-ins welcome. CHAMP: Antioch gymnast is Badger state champ competitive. "We won level 5 (championship) last year, and this year level 6."

Gymnastics requires a strong constitution and strong bodies. Diemer gets up at 6:45 a.m. on Saturdays to be ready for training at 8 a.m. in Kenosha. "We run 20 laps around the floor and we stretch." The coach then helps them work on their skills. "At the end (of the session) we stretch, we do leg lifts, pull ups, and straight arm lifts." She does this type of training everyday except Wednesday and Sunday. On those days she has a chance to relax and spend time with friends.

Diemer also spends time with her brothers Tim and Chris. She is the daughter of Deborah and Robert Diemer. She likes music. No Doubt and Jewel are particular current favorites. She attends and likes Emmons School. "It's a small community," she said of the school. The investment of personal time in gymnastics has been substantial, however. "It helps me organize my time." She gets her homework done, does her training, and keeps up in school. She expects to attend Antioch Community High School.

"I like the bars and floor," Diemer said. Those are her favorites, but she also works on the vault and balance beam exercises. "We practice all year 'round. Our coach tells us to keep trying." He guides their training. Diemer said, "It took me 1 or 2 years to learn the kip." Kip is a specific gymnastic move in which one grabs the bar, swings the feet out, and then pulls up. "You need that for a lot of things," she said.

What does a gymnastic exercise consist of? Diemer said, "Kip, cast, clear hip, kip, squat-on, jump to higher bar, kip, cast, long hang pullover, undershoot, two swings, and a fly away."

OK.

Diemer has mastered many skills. By linking skills together, gymnasts create specific exercises that are required at different levels of performance- such as levels four, five, six, and seven. As a Level 6 state champion, Diemer is now being evaluated by her coaches for either further training as a level 6 performer or a move to level 7. At level seven, gymnasts chose her own routine, music, and work on choreography developed with a coach. "In level seven, everyone does a different routine," she said. "We're working on harder skills for level seven, such as the flip-flop, on the high beam."

Gymnastic team competition at regular local meets leads to state championships. For Diemer, many competitions occur in Madison, Milwaukee, and Kenosha.

"THE NOSE 'NOs' "

Everyone picks on smokers these days. It is a hard habit to kick, even if you really want to. If your home is on the market, however, it may sell more quickly if you temporarily make it a smoke-free zone.

The sense of smell is the most powerful of all the five senses. Be sure to keep your home aired out while it is on the market. If the weather is good, you can smoke outside or while taking a walk or a drive. Avoid heavily-scented room fresheners which combined with the smoke can be worse than the smoke alone. It helps to wash the walls and have drapes and upholstered furniture professionally cleaned. This is really a serious issue for many buyers, so don't limit your audience.

Lake Villa teens charged in shooting out windows

Three being held in County Jail

By LEON FILAS Staff Reporter

The Lake County Sheriffs Department has arrested three individuals who were terrorizing Grant Township with a pellet gun throughout the month of December.

Arrested were: Steven J. Perschkes, 18, and Matthew and Douglas Johnson, both 17. All three of the offenders are from 408 Park Lane in Lake Villa

All three have been charged with felony counts of Criminal Damage to Property and are currently in custody in Lake County Jail.

The three week investigation started when reports of car windows were being shot out by a bee-bee gun, or a "wrist rocket" in the Ingleside area. The cases got the attention of the Lake County Sheriff and Crime Stoppers in the area. Incidents were also reported in Antioch.

Crime stoppers forwarded all information to Detective Richard White, and later, Johnson was arrested during a routine traffic stop. he was taken back to the station, where he identified Perschkes and Johnson's twin Douglas were also identified to be a part of the crimes.

The investigation also led police to the recovery of one stolen snowmobile, the clearance of three auto burglaries, one boat burglary and 19 separate property damage reports. Three pellet guns, believed to be used in the property damage spree, were also recovered.

"Although this is a property damage only case, it is clear that the implications are of a far more serious nature and concern for the citizens of Lake County," Lake County Sheriff Gary Del Re stated. "I would like to commend both CrimeStoppers and the Sheriffs Deputies Steve Hennelly, John Krempotic and Larry Oliver for the arrests of both subjects."

"I'm glad that the two organizations [Fox Lake Police Dept. and Lake County Sheriffs Dept.] could work together to get this thing solved," Police Chief Edward Garretson stated about the arrest. "Also, CrimeStoppers is a very valuable organization. Who cares who gets the arrest as long as the problem is solved."

The investigation is continuing. Individuals with information on this matter, please contact CrimeStoppers at 662-2222.

Brook memorial resolution adopted

By KENNETH PATCHEN Staff Reporter

Village trustees adopted a resolution Jan. 19 to name a seven acre wetlands restoration and education project in downtown Antioch the "William E. Brook Memorial Wetland Sanctuary and Entertainment Center."

Mayor Marilyn Shineflug presented the resolution for council consideration. "It encompasses what we are trying to do," Shineflug said. The village seeks to honor Brook who was a civic leader and a major contributor to village events and projects. He was also an avid conserva-

Village officials cited the func-tion of Antioch as a primary tourism gateway to the Chain of Lakes region in the resolution.

The resolution said, "In order to promote tourism and to enhance and beautify the central area of the Village of Antioch, the ... 7- acre parcel is an ideal location for the installation of a nature conservancy, skating facility, and an educational and entertainment center." It further noted the opportunity to use the area for community events that bring people to Antioch. Events such as Taste of Antioch, arts and crafts fairs sponsored by the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry, the 885 Civic Club carnivals, and other possible recreation events were specifically cited.

The Brook Memorial Center area will include education and conservation areas as well as ice skating facility ponds and an education and entertainment area.

Cyclist prepares for marathon ride

Peter Bolender trains at High Gear in Lindenhurst for his six week trip from Seattle to Washington D.C. to raise funds for the American Lung Association. Bolender will take to the road, June 15.—Photo by Lynn Gunnarson Dahlstrom

Cyclist Pete Bolender has started his cross country marathon training six months before he begins his six week trek this summer to raise funds for the American Lung Associ-

Bolender will be one of approximately a thousand people to participate in the first GTE Big Ride from Seattle to Washington, D.C. from June 15 to August 1.

Lindenhurst and Antioch resident Bolender can join the national ride because of the support of family, employer, and local supporters. It is a major national and personal event. "It's to help raise money for the American Lung Association to help them demonstrate the benefits of healthy living," said Pat Bolender, his wife. In addition to helping her husband train, she will serve as crew leader of the medical tent that is part of the mobile community that accompanies a major bicycle ride of this type. She is a registered nurse at St. Therese Medical Center.

"One of the main reasons we're doing this is that my mother, Dorothy Falvey, died of emphysema," Pat Bolender said. "We're dedicating this ride in her memory."

"Our younger son, Michael, is my husband's training partner," Pat

Bolender said. "They also ride with the Tuesday evening riding group, Higher Gear." Higher Gear, 2106 East Grand Avenue, in Lindenhurst, is a bike shop that is helping Pete Bolender prepare for the ride.

"The person who owns Higher Gear, Chris Kaiser, allows Pete to use indoor training equipment and gives him instructions," said Pat Bolender. Kaiser is only one local supporter, however. "My husband works for Dexter Corporation." The company is allowing him to aggregate vacation time to obtain sufficient time to participate in the ride.

Part of the fund-raising benefit of the ride will be distributed in Lake County. "We need to raise $6,000 for my husband to ride." Bolender said that approximately two-thirds of that amount stays in the county with the Lake County American Lung Association in Lake Bluff. Some of the other money will help finance the costs of the cross-country ride.

Money is contributed to the Bolenders from supporters. "We send out fund raising letters," Bolender said. Friends and co-workers also help. In past fund-raising rides, Pete Bolender has received contributions from $5 to $500. People who wish to help can send checks made out to the American Lung Association. Bolender lives at 1400 Eagle Ridge Drive, Antioch, 60002. She said that she also has pledge forms people may wish to consider using. The American Lung Association contribution is tax deductible.

The detailed ride route has not yet been announced, although it will pass through the following states: Washington, Utah, Montana, Yoming, South Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, and Maryland. "There will be closing ceremonies in Washington, D.C." she said of the final stop.

Although there are to be a thousand bicycle riders in the GTE Big Ride, there will also be 300 to 400 people moving with the cyclists. This group of people serve as medical care personnel, bike transports, clean-up people, operators of showers in a semi-trailer truck, and people who create and dismantle a 1000bike parking lot wherever the group stops. The caravan rides for six days and rests on the seventh. "They ride approximately 100 miles a day," Pat Bolender said. "Everybody sleeps in pup-tents."

"I can guarantee you, he will finish," Bolender said.

Do just what the doctor orders

t has been a while since we have published any newsy things about Antioch's DeBoer family and this time around it's Jean who is making the headlines.

Earlier this month, she put a little too much spunk in her walk and ended up end over end. She is recovering from her mishap and we just thought it might be nice to publicly wish her a speedy recovery. It goes without saying that her bowling buddies miss her immensely.

Now Jean, we all know you have had years of experience nurturing and caring for sick children and grandchildren, and sometimes moms and grandmas don't always make the best patients. They have a tendency to think they know what is better for them that some doctor who has had years of medical training. So, as hard as it may be for you to do so, you need to listen carefully to your doctors and follow all their instructions. So, while you are still under doctors care, sit back, put aside your "Dr. Mom" instincts, and let them fix you up like new-after all the golf season starts in just a few short months.

Football season over?

Can it possibly be that football is almost over for yet another season? What is the male population of the U.S. of A. going to do to occupy all the hours on Sunday afternoon and Monday nights?

Could it be that they may finally get to those long overdue chores that need tending? Could it be that the Christmas tree may finally be dragged off the front porch where it was dumped two Sunday's ago because the wifey whined at you during the entire first half of the playoff game to get it out of the living room. Most men would question "Why was she even allowed in the living room during game time?" So, after Sunday's big Super Bowl and next weeks' Pro Bowl game are over, some stuff may get done around the house. Maybe that leaky kitchen faucet will be replaced, maybe those shelves you wanted hung since last July will get put up,

But women, don't jump to any conclusions here, don't put the cart before the horse, don't think that there is a light at the end of the tunnel, because although football may be officially over, there is still basketball, hockey, soccer, tennis, car racing, golf, and before you know it, the baseball season will be in full swing, not to mention those Winter Olympic games.

Readers with information for "Jingle from Pringle" should call Lynn Pringle at 395-6364.

Listen To Your Pains!

Do you immediately want to take a pill when you experience pain? Pain is your body's warning system, and to merely mask pain is much like turning off a smoke alarm, and ignoring the fire.

Pain is often caused by a structural imbalance. The central nervous system extends from the brain through the spinal column, reaching every major part of the body, generating more than three million impulses every second. Pain can be a warning signal that something is wrong with the nervous system, and the problem may not necessarily be located at the sight of the pain. If you only treat the pain, your health can deteriorate, and you may find yourself needing increasing dosages of pain relievers that can interfere with your ability to function normally. Millions of people rely on chiropractic treatment--it is the largest drug-free healing profession in the world. Your doctor of chiropractic can help you learn the real cause of your pain and protect your health with spinal care.

John DeBeck forced out at Round Lake

Panthers head coach leaves success in his wake

ohn DeBeck "resigned" as head coach of the girls basket-ball team at Round Lake High School last Thursday, Jan. 15. This came soon after a very disturbing incident which took place just before Christmas break at the high school.

Jackie Oclon, a player for DeBeck, was having a bad week and did not play in a game due to missing a practice during the week. The team members keep diaries for very open, personal communication with the coach, and Oclon wrote about her unhappiness.

DeBeck wrote her a letter, trying to motivate her for the upcoming games. In the letter he used foul language, and Oclon read the letter and threw it away. Some unidentified person took the letter out of the garbage and made copies, and then distributed it to school officials.

It is very sad that a coach who was so well-liked and respected had to lose his job and involvement with the varsity team over an isolated incident that was taken out of context by someone who was not involved and did not know anything about the situation.

The players and parents of the team support DeBeck and would like him to continue coaching the team, and most feel that the firing was unjust—to the point where eight of the players want to play under DeBeck on the Wisconsin Streamliners team, which travels the country and competes in the Under-19 World Championships.

Jackie Oclon and her parents have no bad feelings toward De-Beck, and would like him to still be coaching the Panthers.

Coaches need to be able to express themselves freely, because sometimes players need a good verbal kick-in-the-pants to get motivated and play up to their level. This kind of coaching method, the diaries, is an interesting coaching method and has some solid merit. Whoever brought this to the attention of the others by going through the trash and making copies is wrong—plain and simple.

Hamlett, LHS too much

By STEVE PETERSON Staff Reporter

The guard situation at Libertyville High School was viewed with, well, guarded optimism at season's start.

Could inexperienced juniors Andy Yarc, as well as Ryan Schreen and others learn quickly on the job to keep hopes up for a North Suburban Conference title run. Luke McKnight opted to prepare for his senior baseball season.

The answer was yes. Yarc and Schreen both had key plays as LHS survived a 56-52 overtime win over Antioch.

"In the second half, the seniors took over. The first half may have been due to a lack of intensity. We did not have school today," said Yarc.

Brian Hamlett and Jim Oboikowitch are the senior leaders in question, scoring 24 and 11 points to lead the win and keep pace with Zion-Benton in the NSC.

"The intensity in the first half was a one compared to the second half when it was a 10," said Hamlett.

"Our junior guards have done an exceptional job. When they play well and we don't have as many turnovers, we win," said Hamlett.

"Andy is more relaxed now and so is Ryan. It is not like earlier in the year when it was one pass a and a shot," said LHS coach Max Sanders. The Yarc family supplies the LHS basketball program with two standouts. His sister Arin is a defensive specialist for the girls team. Both had three-point baskets within 24 hours.

"I encouraged my sister to shoot more and we both got a three-point basket," said Yarc.

Hamlett used his skills honed on the gridiron as a wide receiver for the Wildcats and blazing 4.6 40-yard dash speed in clutch time.

"Those drills for wide receivers come in handy," said Hamlett. "Football is my meal ticket, but I love to play basketball. In the past, it was Luke and J.R. Jurecko who were the leaders. Now it is our turn to step up," said Hamlett.

Sanders described the first half, a 17-13 Antioch lead as a "sleepwalk." The game's first basket, by Brian Soldano of ACHS, did not come until 3:37 left in the first quarter. The home team's first score came on a basket by Hamlett 10 minutes into the game.

Schreen drew a foul on Antioch's Quinn Gooch with 31 seconds left in regulation and hit both free throws.

Chris Groth led the ACHS (3-3 NSC, 9-6 overall) effort with 14 points and nearly pulled off another one of his heroics. Groth, who has one game-winning shot to his credit this year, tied the game at 44 on a lay-up from the left side.

The four minute extra session started on an Antioch turnover, leading to two Schreen free throws.

Hamett's spin move and a basket by Mike Lowry off a Hamlett assist and two Yarc free throws accounted for a 52-48 lead.

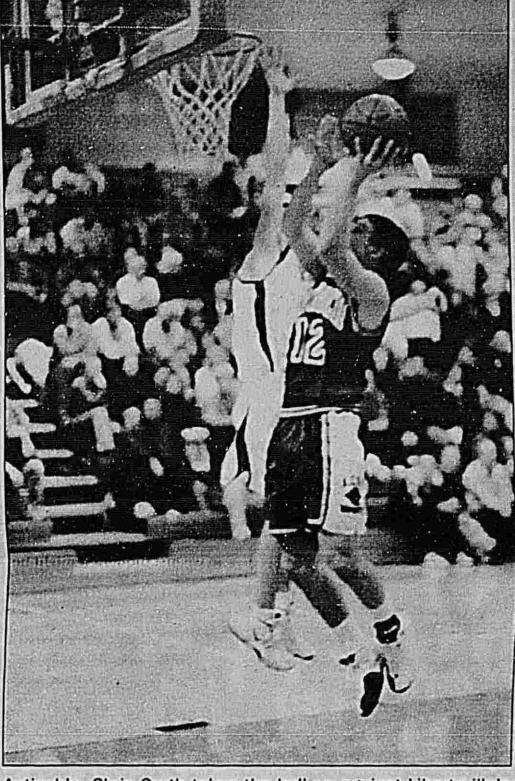

Hamlett successfully snared a touchdown-like pass for the final basket.

"We had a hand in his face. He just hit the big shot. I told the kids this one should hurt. I thought we could beat them," said ACHS coach Jeff Dresser.

Libertyville fell to 8-7 overall with a loss to Palatine Saturday 52-39.

Libertyville too strong for Antioch girls

By STEVE PETERSON Staff Reporter

Fatigue should not be a problem for the Libertyville girls basketball team.

The Wildcats keep coming at opponents in waves, often using 10 players a game without blinking an eye in terms of talent. Need another forward to get the job done - there is one on the bench. Need another guard for defensive pressure - many candidates are at the ready.

Libertyville's depth took over for three quarters in a 66-35 romp over Antioch. The win keeps the Wildcats tied for first place in the North Suburban Conference.

Tricia Thomas scored 16 points to lead the effort, but it was sophomore Molly Meredith who gave the Wildcats their needed spark. She scored 10 of her 12 points in the second quarter as the Wildcats opened up a 16-point halftime lead.

"Tricia is good at dishing off passes. We found out how they were playing. We are a really deep team. We know we can go all-out because there is someone who can come in and they are just as good," said Meredith.

Meredith's progress this year was slowed by a shoulder injury but the 5-9 forward has overcome that.

"We just wanted to come out and play hard. Molly is awesome. She is a very versatile player," said Thomas.

"Molly was wide open and the other players found her," said LHS coach Tom Murphy.

The all-defense team was in to knock Antioch (9-8) out of contention in this one. Arin Yarc, Thomas and others took control while Antioch's leading scorer, Nicole Langley, was out for foul trouble. The game marked one of several times the Wildcats have forced 20 opponents turnovers.

"Yarc is a big factor for us, although it does not show up in the box score. She controls the defense," said Murphy.

Libertyville improved to 10-7 overall, 5-0 NSC with the win. The Wildcats are the fourth seed at the Warren sectional. They faced a key clash with co-leader Lake Forest on Tuesday.

With 10 to 12 players seeing action, whoever starts the game does not have as much meaning as some teams for LHS.

Antioch fought Libertyville to a 10-10 first quarter standoff. Aja Brown led Antioch with 10 points.

Libertyville led 33-17 at halftime after a 23-7 run. Allison Farrington had eight of her 12 points in the first half. Six Wildcats scored in the first 16 minutes.

The lead grew to as many as 30 points at the start of the fourth quarter. Substitutes played the final 4:30.

"The key moment in the game was the second quarter. After a turnover, Langley got her third foul and we had to sit her. We had four or five straight turnovers after that. If we protected the ball and kept Langley in the game, it might have been different. But we played hard. I am proud as I could be. We made them work," said ACHS coach Dave Woods.

Libertyville is at Zion-Benton Jan. 24.

ACHS defense stops RL star

A determined defensive effort kept Round Lake's standout from gaining the coveted 1,000 point mark away from her own gym.

"It was a really excellent effort on defense. Going in the kids knew Kristy Nichols needed 16 points to reach 1,000. We all agreed there was no way this was going to take place in our gym," said Antioch coach Dave Woods. "They really limited the number of touches she had."

Amie Carlberg, Lisa Ipsen and Katie Pechauer all took turns defending Nichols in a 50-30 Antioch win.

The win was important in that it gave the Sequoits a 9-7 record. That was good enough for a seventh seed and a first round home game at the Warren sectional.

Nicole Langley led the way at the other end against the Panthers. She scored 22 points, only one off a lay-up.

"It was her best game ever. She shot 65 percent from the field, she was in a zone," said Woods.

Pechauer, a freshman, contributed two rebounds and four points. She is the daughter of ACHS football coach Del Pechauer.

"She is an excellent player. Her minutes have been going up every week. She did a great job guarding a senior," said Woods.

Pechauer was called up to the varsity to take the roster spot left by Kelly Strysick. Strysick is out for the season with a knee injury.

"We are making the adjustment without Kelly," said Woods.

Junior Erin Riepe has been making strides on offense, said Woods. Libertyville trounced the Sequoits 65-33.

Antioch bounced back for a 4136 win over Mundelein in NSC play.

Future looks bright for two frosh ACHS grapplers

Brian Backe is one Antioch High freshman not intimidate by surroundings.

He has contributed in double digit wins for the Sequoits this season, despite going up against more experienced opponents.

Backe at 103 and Chris Richardson at 112 give Antioch two freshman to start the lineup.

"One of the things that freshmen lack is strength. They are often not as strong as their upperclassmen counter parts. Kids who wrestled in grade school usually have enough technique to do a reasonable job. They may lack the mat savvy it takes that comes with experience," said ACHS coach Ted Sieckowski.

Backe gave Libertyville's Mandy Thompson a rare loss in a 5-4 in.

The lower weights did fine for the Sequoits, But undefeated Dan Cysewksi started a trend of Wildcat wins that would not be stopped until Nate Carden won at 275 pounds. By then, Libertyville claimed a 39-25 win in a battle of previously unbeaten North Suburban Conference powers.

"I was very surprised with the efforts of our kids in the lower weight classes. After 135, we came up against their big guns and ran out of steam," said Sieckowski.

ACHS winners included Ryan Hlinak with a fall in 5:40 at 119; Dave Sorokowski with a 6-5 decision at 125; Joe Brandimore with an 11-2 win at 135. Carden won in a fall at

"Nate gets nothing but better every time out. He started slow this year, but now he is able to dominate most opponents," said Sieckowski.

Carden has wrestled at both 215 and 275 for the Sequoits, two very different classes.

Carden was 3-0 at a triple dual at Carl Sandburg. Antioch lost close battles to Romeoville and Lockport and downed Oswego.

Hlinak, Jeff Ultes at 171 and Steve Smart at 189 were also unbeaten for ACHS.

Antioch (9-4 duals) is at Mundelein Jan. 23.

Just one of the guys

In the gym, Libertyville's Mandy Thompson is as good as some guys, better than most, and isn't phased by being the only female wrestler in the area

By BRENDAN O'NEILL Sports Editor

The typical stereotype of high school age girls is that they talk on the phone for hours on end.

They're always primping and preening their outward appearance, ever so self-conscious of a possible blemish. Conversation inevitably turns to what guy likes what girl, who is taking whom to the senior

While these things may apply to Libertyville's Mandy Thompson, her high school experience goes beyond that.

She's a wrestler.

She's a good wrestler. She reached the sectional round of the state wrestling tournament last year and has higher goals this year. Sure she enjoys the same things that all other high school girls do, but she also likes the hard training, strategy and fierce competition that comes with wrestling on the high school varsity level.

Thompson is one of a handful of girls wrestling at the high school level across the country, and she is one of the new generation of female athletes who thinks-knows-she can compete on the same level as the boys.

"I don't even notice it anymore," said Thompson of always being the only girl. "I just go out there and do the best I can."

Girls wrestling at the high school level, or any level for that matter, has been a point of controversy in the recent past. But once you get past the fact that Thompson is a girl, one can appreciate her as a wrestler-sans gender.

"I think I'm wrestling pretty well," said Thompson of her performance this year. "But there's always room for improvement."

Thompson, wrestling in the 103pound weight class, currently has a record of 10-6 with one pin, and is working to improve on last year's 23-

Kids and parents have fun thinking on 'Brain Challenge Day' utdo yourself, set your own record, and/or just play to solve some of the most interesting logic and brain puzzles from a span of 100 years, plus make a logic puzzle to take home.

Families are invited to the Hall of Puzzles Challenge Day on Sunday, Feb. 1 anytime between 1 and 5 p.m. Styles to puzzle through are magic squares, packing puzzles, wire parlor puzzles, heads & tail, geometric puzzles, dexterity puzzles, put-togethers and sliding block. There will be no jig saw puzzles.

When a puzzle is solved, participants ring bells to announce the moment of achievement. Puzzle masters will record names for posterity and award "Outstanding Thinker" certificates. Special puzzle prizes and viewing of an exhibit are also part of the unique event.

Admission is $3.50 per person. Suggested ages are 5 to adult, with all children accompanied by an adult. Younger people may attend for the same admission charge. A one-and-a-half hour visit minimum is recommended. Anyone paying in advance receives an automatic prize upon arrival that day. The event is held at the Hall of Puzzles, a program of the non-profit educational center: Teaching Place & Parent Resources, 53 Milwaukee Ave., Burlington, Wis.

A version of the program can also be offered at schools and events to enrich thinking experiences and problem solving skills, and naturally have a great time. Fifty different types of puzzles are for sale at the center's gift shop, which acts as a fundraiser for the educational center.

For more information, call (414) 763-3946.

'Kidstuff' offers fun at Gorton Center

he "KidStuff" performing arts series at Gorton Community Center, 400 East Illinois Rd., Lake Forest, will continue with Fred & Teddi's Lil' Cow Band on Saturday, Jan. 24, from 11 to 11:45 a.m. at the John E. Baggett Auditorium, with general admission seating. (Children sitting on laps are free.)

The concert will feature favorite and original songs from the group's recordings, including "Did You Feed My Cow?," which spotlights the singing voices of several local children and the famous Ella Jenkins. Teddi Bujewski-Koch is the director of the Music & Movement Center at Gorton for infants and toddlers and their parents, and Fred is a Music Educator in the Lake Forest Public School district, as well as a musician performing with numerous bands.

Tickets are $5 apiece, and the show is geared to preschoolers through third graders. Interested participants should purchase tickets for the show in advance. For more information, or to receive a program brochure, call the Gorton office at 234-6060.

Papai Players present "Little Red Riding Hood"

apai Players, a professional live theater company that has been entertaining children for over 20 years, proudly presents a humorous adaptation of a well known fairy tale, "Little Red Riding Hood."

The world is very whimsical and clever as he puts his make-up on in front of the audience and develops his character.

The cast includes Kevin Peterson (the wolf), Jo Ann Minds (Grandma), Victoria Verhoven (Little Red Riding Hood), and Pat Cotsakis (pianist).

Performances are held at Cutting

Hall, 150 East Wood St., Palatine, with one performance on Jan. 19 at Schaumburg Prairie Center, 201 Schaumburg Ct., Schaumburg.

Performance dates and times are: Feb. 16, Feb. 19, and Feb. 21, 10 a.m. at Cutting Hall.

MANDY: Female wrestler is 'one of the guys'

15 mark, a second-place finish in the North Suburban Conference, and an appearance at the sectional meet.

"She's doing a good job for us," said Dale Eggert, coach of the Libertyville varsity wrestling team. "I think she's a little ahead of last year's pace."

Thompson said she has areas that need improving, but also knows her strong points.

"I need to work on my footwork," said Thompson. "But I think I'm good at riding people out."

Many people think that Thompson is a tomboy, and is not interested in "typical" girl things. Not so.

"No, I don't think I'm a tomboy," said Thompson. "I guess you could say I am a little bit, because of being on the wrestling team, but I do more than just wrestle with the guys."

Beyond wrestling, Thompson is a member of the track team and the diving team at Libertyville High. Thompson, now a senior, has to deal with what every high school senior must endure-deciding what to do after graduation. College is definitely an option for

Thompson, and she is leaning toward a Texas school because of having family in the lone star state.

Will she wrestle at the college level? "I might wrestle in college," said Thompson. "I might wrestle for (a club-level team) in college...you never know."

Eggert added that Thompson is treated like any other wrestler by her teammates, and that she's earned her respect.

"She's just like anybody else in here," said Eggert. "If they treat here easier than the others, she'll wear them out in practice. They can't let up on her just because she's a girl."

Thompson consistently beats her practice partners during the daily workouts, enough so that she really does blend into the team as just another wrestler-who happens to be female. When in the gym, Thompson is an athlete first, a girl second. Just as it should to be.

HOROSCOPE

Aries - March 21/April 20

You're in a great mood this week, Aries, and that motivates you to get a lot of things done in both your professional and personal lives. Loved ones are proud of what you're doing and gain inspiration from you. You run into an old friend at the end of the week. Spend some time with him or her.

Taurus – April 21/May 21 You usually can let a lot of things go before you speak your mind, but that's not the case this week. You have to say something to a business associate who makes an unethical decision. Don't back down when he or she confronts you stand up for what you believe in. That special someone takes you out for a night on the town. Enjoy! .

Gemini – May 22/June 21
A family relationship has you stressed out early in the week, Gemini. The tension between loved ones is high, but there's nothing you can do about it. Some things just have to run their course. Don't worry; things will be back to normal by the end of the week. Virgo plays a key role a key role.

Cancer – June 22/July 22
You have to take the initiative, Cancer. There is a lot to get done, and no one is going to do it for you. Taking the first step is the difficult part; after that, it will be easy to accomplish things. A close friend turns to you for advice. Be careful of what you for advice. Be careful of what you say, because he or she is not . ready to hear the truth.

Leo – July 23/August 23
Pay attention to the things going on around you early in the week, Leo.
Something is not quite right. Listen for the hidden messages in what people say. A family get-together that you dread going to actually turns out to be a lot of fun. Sagittarius and Scorpio play key roles late in the week in the week.

Virgo – Aug 24/Sept 22 Your perfectionist nature serves you well in the workplace early in the week. Your thoroughness catches a huge error and saves a lot of money. You win praise from the higher-ups. A romantic relationship keeps going strong. Don't hold back — this is the person for you. Leo plays a key role.

Libra - Sept 23/Oct 23

Friends and loved ones turn to you with their problems this week, Libra. They know you're a good listener and need a shoulder to cry on. Support and comfort them, even when it seems that you won't have a moment's peace. They need you. A friend asks you out. Say yes. It's an opportunity that you never thought of before.

Scorplo - Oct 24/Nov 22
Don't let your ego get the best of you early in the week. You know that you are good at what you do, but those around you are very ca-pable also. Vanity only will lower their opinion of you. A loved one asks for your help. Do what you can. Aries plays an important role on Thursday.

Sagittarius - Nov 23/Dec 21 You're in a funk this week. Be frank with a friend when he or she asks you what is wrong. He or she really can help you snap out of it. A loved one invites you out to dinner. Be cautious, be-cause he or she has an ulterior motive. Stand your ground when presented with an outrageous

Capricorn - Dec 22/Jan 20

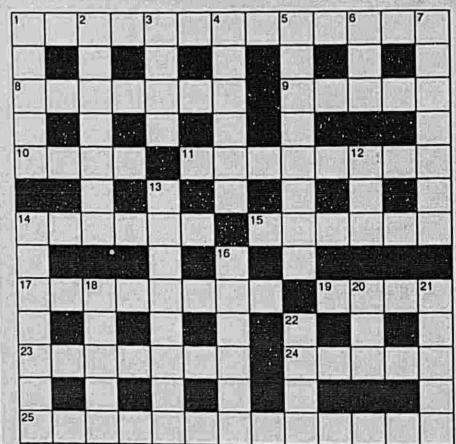

Don't let petty arguments among friends and family members distract you. You've got an important decision to make early in the week, and you can't put it off. (You've done that too many times already.) Take some time for yourself to decide some time for yourself to decide what you want. Aquarius plays a key role on Friday.

Aquarlus – Jan 21/Feb 18
Be true to yourself, Aquarius. Don't do something you don't like just because everyone else is doing it. You are a strong person — believe in yourself. That special someone wants to spend some time apart. Don't fight it. You both need time to think about your feelings. Things will work out.

Pisces - Feb 19/March 20

Your sense of humor wins you praise from an influential person. Don't laugh off his or her offer for help. This is a great opportunity for financial gain. A close friend has an accident and needs your help. Be there for him or her for as long as you are needed. He or she would do the same for you.

THEATRE

'Elmer Gantry'

Marriott's Lincolnshire Theatre presents the Chicago premiere of a major new musical, Elmer Gantry. Preview performances begin Jan. 28, Press Night is Feb. 4 and the show runs through March 22. The show stars Broadway's Tom Zemon (Les Miserables) and Kerry O'Malley (Cyrano the Musical).

Elmer Gantry is based on Sinclair Lewis' Pulitzer Prize-winning novel and Academy Award-winning film. In the dusty back water towns of the Midwest in th 1930s, Sister Sharon Falconer's two-bit traveling salvation show struggles to save souls and meet expenses. Enter the fast talking, good looking Elmer Gantry, salesman and con man. He turns Sister Sharon's world upside down and starts saving souls with showbiz savvy and greedy know-how. But what he really wants, money can't buy. His smoldering desire for the beautiful Sister Sharon ignites into a blazing inferno threatening to consume them both. The only thing left to save is his own soul.

Performances are Wednesdays at 2 and 8 p.m.; Thursdays at 8 p.m.; Saturdays at 5 and 8:30 p.m.; and Sundays at 2:30 and 7 p.m. Tickets are $33, with $5 off to senior citizens and students for certain performances. Reservations can be made by calling the box office at 634-0200.

Maui's Best Beach

President, North Star Travel

In the early 1970's you were likely to find the Rolling Stones jamming here. Elton John was also known to hangout on this, the most beautiful beach on Maui, if not all of Hawaii. No, I'm not talking about Kaanapali with its wall to wall hotels. You know me

This breathtakingly beautiful stretch of white sand is called Makera Beach, though the locals just call it "Big Beach." (There is also a "Little Beach" I'll tell you about later.) As yet the building cranes, often called Maui's state bird, have not descrated this last remaining piece of paradise. In fact, you will have to find an unmarked dirt road to get to Big Beach. If you promise not to tell anyone, I'll give you directions.

From Wallea Village on Maui's south shore, head East about four miles. You will pass the new Maui Prince Resort. Keep going and the road will get very narrow. You will come to some small, but very steep hills marked with "No sight" warning signs. Immediately past the third "No sight" sign is a dirt road. Turn right for a couple of hundred yards and you're at Big Beach.

That island across the channel is Molokini, a half-sunken volcanic crater. It's very popular for snorkeling trips, since it is a marine sanctuary with coral gardens and thousands of reef fish that will eat from your hand.

To your right is a cinder cone known as "Red Hill." If it's whale watch season (November to about May), you've got an excellent chance of a sighting from this view point. Arrive near sunset and, if you don't see a whale, you will experience a spectacular

By the way, on the other side of Red Hill is "Little Beach." You may experience a sighting or two there, also, as this is a favorite nude beach.

For those preferring something a little closer to civilization, the beach in front of the Maui Prince is, as all beaches in Hawaii, open to the public. To get to it, turn right just past the Maui Prince on to a road that will immediately become dirt. Continue along past the front of this Maui Prince and you will find a parking area complete with restrooms. You're right across from a church built in 1832 which still holds services in Hawaiian every Sunday at 11:00 am.

College students, or creatures of the night?

your kids away to college, and you never know exactly who or what they'll come back as.

And if that's not scary enough, sometimes they return as vampires.

For example, last fall I sent away my second oldest son to the University of Alaska Fairbanks. Before you accuse me of child abuse, let me say that he actually chose to go there. But that's another story.

Getting back to my point, this particular son of mine used to be someone who, for most of his childhood, would fall asleep at exactly 7:30 p.m. no matter where he was. If he was in McDonald's, his face would be comfortably cushioned by his McNuggets despite our best efforts to keep him awake. He grew up never knowing what New Year's Eve was for.

After his first semester of college, he returned home for the Christmas holidays a changed person. Suddenly, he was sleeping all day and staying up all night. Which, at our house, is not an easy feat. Actually, sleeping past 6 a.m. at the Abear household is a rarity. This is because our 4- year -old, Samantha, was apparently an animal in a past life. My guess would be a rooster. "GET UP! GET UP!" she crows in your ear, as she goes from bedroom to bedroom immediately upon awakening.

However, as she soon discovered when her brother returned home, you cannot wake a vampire. Unless you put him under a sun lamp, he is going to sleep through anything, even with his sister, the rooster, using his sleeping body as a trampoline for her Barbies.

At first I thought my son's new sleeping habits were just a result of Alaska's lack of daylight around this time of year. When he left there for Christmas break, the sun normally rose about 11:30 a.m. and was down again by 2 p.m.

But the more I thought about it, this ability to sleep soundly despite everything was making me wonder if that twin bed we'd prepared for him was inadequate. I mean, maybe I should have set up a pine box in the basement with some of his native soil from Alaska.

And suddenly I remembered that his favorite Sesame Street character used to be that little vampire dude, "The Count." And - I had almost forgotten this, too - his favorite movie when he was small, the one he watched over and over again, was "Love at First Bite". (In case that doesn't ring a bell, it was a comedy with George Hamilton as a funny Count Dracula). The kid used to watch that almost daily. His favorite line from the movie was, "Creatures of the night—SHUT UP!" (And since he got home, it's now my favorite line!)

As I began to put all this together, I got nervous. Sleeping all day. Loved vampires as a child. There was only one thing missing—the "look." He does not look like a vampire - in fact, I have seen young people hanging out in our local restaurants who make me want to wear turtlenecks, and my son does not resemble them, either.

So, you can imagine my relief when I read an article about how typical it is for college students, and not just those in Alaska, to drive their family crazy when they come home. According to the article, their penchant for turning night and day upside down is normal behavior. It seems to be a combination of late study habits (students can often by found in the computer lab at midnight, for example), lack of early morning classes and the freedom to yell "TOGA PARTY!" whenever they want.

So, okay - I suppose I should rest easy now. He's not a vampire he's just a college student. And the fact that not one of us have bite marks on our necks is proof enough, right? Maybe. But there's still that little matter of my checkbook being sucked dry...

Make your own delicious taco pizza

Ever wonder how you can duplicate the taste of that delicious taco pizza that you have when you order it at your favorite pizza place? The recipe below comes deliciously close to the great flavor of the pizza parlor variety, and is quite easy and quick to prepare.

Ingredients:

1 Boboli pizza crust
1 lb. hamburger
1 packet taco seasoning mix
1 med. diced onion
Shredded lettuce

Mozzarella, Cheddar and Monterey Jack cheeses
Small bag of nacho chips
Western dressing

Directions

Prepare taco meat as directed on taco seasoning packet. While that's simmering, dice the onion, shred lettuce and crumple a few handfuls of the nacho chips. When taco meat is sufficiently thickened, spread generously onto Boboli pizza crust. Sprinkle diced onions over meat and top with a mixture of the cheeses. Bake in a 375-degree oven until the cheese is melted and crust is crisp.

Remove pizza from oven and sprinkle shredded lettuce and nacho chips on top. Enjoy! Note: If you like the nacho chips warm and crispy, sprinkle them on top of the cheese before baking.

One pizza feeds approximately two adults. Double ingredients for additional pizzas.

If you have an interesting and delicious recipe to share with readers, send them to In the Kitchen, c/o Lakeland Newspapers, 30 S. Whitney St., Grayslake, IL 60030.

MOVIE PICK

Tibet is back again and as beautiful

Although the crystal mountain kingdom of Tibet is as forbidding, geologically and practically removed from the way of life in western civilization, its beauty and gentility keeps popping up with the magic of the movie screen.

Ever since Ronald Coleman gloried in this religious civilization in "Lost Horizon," or the legends of The Abominable Snowman reached us through the media and in wonderful tales of storytellers, Tibet has fascinated us.

The rich and famous, such as Richard Gere, have drawn our attention to the plight of the 14th Dalai Lama. So did Brad Pitt in "Seven Years in Tibet."

Not since we tuned our TVs into "Kung Fu" have the snowy peaks of this peaceful place been of interest and its' closed doors been opened again, as Martin Scorcese brings us a meditative drama about China's attempt to eradicate the Dalai Lama, his followers, and their way of life in "Kundun."

Scorcese parades a succession of actors playing the Buddhist mystic from childhood on, but the movie falls short of putting us into the heart of this eastern civilization to help us feel the terrible oppression inflicted on Tibet by a mass murderer whose disastrous exploits are akin those of another 20th century killer, Adolph Hitler.

Despite the breathtaking photography that is almost a given considering the celestial wonder of this piece of the most mysterious Far East, like the long and arduous "Last Emperor," what we end up with is a film that is pretty to look at, and boring to sit through as soon as icy mountains and mediocre acting take their toll.

We did not feel, appreciate, or empathize with the Tibetan plight because we did not care about the Dalai Lama as portrayed by Tenzin Thuthob Tsarong and the film's villain, a foppish Mao Zedong, as played by Robert Lin, falls short of what we expect China's old dictator

"Kundun" is this year's overlong epic, a sort of "Tibetan Patient," if you will.

We give "Kundun," 2.5 out of five stars for the historical information it can supply to those who missed Gere at the Academy Awards, and did not see any of the previous films with the same storyline.—By Gloria Davis

The Dalai Lama and Company in "Kundun." The scenery is beautiful, but the story line has been done, as in "Seven Years in Tibet," starring Brad Pitt.

Sometimes kids need to learn things on their own

I read your column all the time and see that you write about kids. I'm not sure if you can help me or not since my child is in her 20s. We have a fairly serious problem and are at our wits end to figure out how to resolve it and there are a lot of hurt feelings involved.

The problem is that our daughter has met and decided to marry a boy who we feel is just awful to her and to us. He isn't physically abusive or anything, but he says mean remarks and in general is just a bitter, nasty person. He has lied to our daughter about things we have said and our daughter seems to be believing him. He has manipulated her in about 100 ways at this point.

PARENT'S PLACE

Sherri Singer, Psy.D.

Our family has always been close and also had a great ability to laugh at things. She used to be a person with a great sense of humor. Since meeting him, our daughter is not only not allowed to laugh and have fun, but not allowed to see us. We really feel that we have done nothing here and are being punished for it. We think that this boy has a problem with our daughter being able to laugh with us, while he has a family that not only he can't laugh with, but he usually ends up making fun of.

We would like to stop this marriage before it happens and aren't sure if that's the correct thing to do. We also don't want to accept this kind of behavior but feel that because it's our daughter, we have to. We realize that our problem goes far beyond a column answer and may be calling you soon to meet you in person, but for now, could you give us a starting direction? Both of us are just distraught over this and feel that we are losing our daughter forever. B.M.

Dear B.M.,

First, I'm terribly sorry for your situation since I know how painful these situations can be. Unfortunately, I am hearing about a lot of these lately. For me to answer this, you need to know about my general philosophy in this area.

Many people in our society feel that if there is blood between two people, that any behavior is more acceptable. I completely disagree with this. I believe that we earn our relationships. Even when there is blood. Blood does not permit people to treat others in a disrespectful or nasty way. In other words, putting all the responsibility on the boy here may not be the most appropriate first way to look at this situation.

He may have problems himself, but if he is lying to your daughter about you and your daughter is believing it without checking with you first, then there is also a problem going on with your daughter. It may be easier for you to take her behavior because she is blood, but clearly, if she is believing lies, then her behavior is not appropriate either.

There are two separate issues here. The first one involves your question of stopping the marriage and the second involves whether you should be accepting this behavior or not.

Regarding stopping the marriage (and this may be tough to read), if you get in the way and stop the marriage, you are lining up to be blamed by your daughter for the rest of your life. Whatever your daughter sees in this boy is strong enough that she decided to marry him and commit her life to him. More than likely, if these awful characteristics you describe exist, she isn't seeing them clearly and your telling her about them won't make them clearer. It will just make you look like the bad

Unfortunately, in these situations, the writing can be on the wall, but until it is right up their nose, they don't see it. Your daughter may just have to learn about this one on her own. She may go through pain and struggle with it, but if you get involved, you make yourself the target. As long as he isn't hitting her or life threatening to her, your involvement will not be seen as a caring gesture, but will be seen as an intrusion into her privacy and decisions.

Also, unfortunately, the harder you push her to move away from him, chances are, the harder she'll try to prove something and hang on tighter. She may be in the throes of trying to individuate from you and make her own decisions. She may see your disdain as an attempt to thwart that independence

So, in a nutshell, you can try and stop it if you want to and if you feel that that is the right decision for you, however, I will strongly suggest that if you do that, you will be the focus of her anger for a long time to come. You will also prevent her from seeing these things on her own and thus coming to that decision herself. If and when she makes that decision herself, it will be far more meaningful for her and you will not have had a hand in it or have been the reason for doubts about what might have been.

If you need to suggest something, maybe suggest a very long engagement so she can be sure. Be sure to help her understand that it's her decision completely. If his behavior is this distasteful, she will most certainly see it when all of this other family stuff is not occurring. She can focus all of her energy on you right now and it takes away from her seeing the writing on the wall. When the dust settles, his true colors may become clearer to her.

Regarding the issue of whether you should be accepting the behavior that is being thrown your way, as I said, I believe that blood means nothing when it comes to bad behavior. There is no reason on this earth why you need to accept any kind of disrespectful or degrading behavior. If your daughter chooses to accept that stuff it's her decision and choice, and she needs to live with it. You don't have to. You do need to be aware that if you don't accept it, you also may lose contact with your daughter. You have to weigh which way feels better to you. Accepting this behavior and taking anything just to be with your daughter or not accepting this behavior and being clear about that. I cannot tell you exactly which direction to go, however, I would suggest that if you are planning to come in to see me that you do it sooner than later so that you can feel better about this right away.

The hard truth is, you do the best you can and then at some point, you need to let them make their own decisions and then live by consequences of those decisions. It's the hardest single thing for a parent to do, but it needs to be done. I can tell that you are in a significant amount of pain about this and my thoughts are with you. Good luck and take it slowly.

seafood Tapas.

Princess Tapas Bar & Restaurant welcomes families

The Princess Tapas Bar, Restaurant and Banquets, located at 1290 S. Milwaukee Ave. in Libertyville, is known for its very casual dining where everyone is welcome, especially families.

Enjoying the warmth of a glowing fireplace in winter, and the scenic outdoor patio in summer, visitors to The Princess delight in trying a variety of 59 Tapas as well as a large and complete menu of delicious entrees, all at affordable prices.

Besides serving savory homemade soups, and succulent salads, such as the Downtown Spinach

Salad, delectable pasta, poultry, meat and seafood entrees, The Princess now has the answer to the age old question, "What shall I order - everything looks so good!"

That answer is the Tapas tradition which offers a way to sample the delights that The Princess offers. Originating in Spain, the Tapas idea has been expanded by The Princess into an international Tapas menu offering seafood, chicken, and beef dishes from all over the world and more.

Tapas are smaller, low priced portions of the finest in culinary art, starting at $1.75 up to $5.75. The Tapas menu includes cold, or hot, meat or seafood, in servings meant for sharing, allowing you and your friends or family to try as many of a great variety of Tapas as desired.

Start with a couple different Tapas and expand your taste horizons. Tickle your taste buds with such Tapas as Filet Tornadoes, Baked Artichoke, Dates in Bacon with Plum Sauce, or Seafood Pastry Puffs. As a special added attraction, there is live entertainment in the Tapas Bar every weekend, featuring jazz, or guitar music, or Flamenco danc-

The regular entree menu includes steaks, especially New York Strip Steak, at $9.95, fresh fish at $8.95, or simply a sandwich, maybe a special Focaccia Chicken sandwich at $5.25.

You are invited to enjoy our Sunday Brunch Buffet, served from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Instructions on how to design an indoor garden

Ithough we are in the dead of winter, we gardeners do not have to give up our fa-Avorite pastimes, Besides reading gardening magazines and lulling over current catalogues we can design a "living" floral arrangement to add spark and color to the indoors.

I have a project that will give you a chance to get your hands in the dirt-and to show off your creative side. Come on, all gardeners are cre-

First you will need to gather up the materials. You'll need a large container: an interesting basket, antique ceramic container, glass bowl, or a moss-lined wire basket, such as can be purchased at a floral shop. Your container should be of a decent size approximately 18 inches wide and six inches deep or so, and you will need a dozen or so three inch potted plants.

Take your container and line it with plastic, a heavy duty garbage bag will do, then add a layer of perlite on the bottom of the container, for good drainage. Fill with a good quality potting soil. Then add your plants. Use various plants with different textures and colors, some flowering, some with lush foliage, to add contrast try to use those that require about the same light and watering requirements. You can find many indoor plants at your local supermarket, nursery or gardening center. Group them together and discover which look pleasing to your eye.

Some to consider are miniature roses, ferns, impatience, cyclamen, ivies, begonias and daisies. Create a focal point by planting the most striking (largest, tallest, brightest color in the middle of your container to provide the focus. Look at all the angles when planting your plants in the container. Leave room for your plants to grow, do not overcrowd them.

Finish your arrangement by adding fillers and cascading, trailing plants. Various ivies and ground covers are good for this purpose. Add a personal touch a tiny birdhouse, butterflies, small statuary etc. Also, use some moss to bring the look together and retain mois-

Most arrangements will need moderate light, and fertilize them once a month. Pinch plants periodically to stimulate growth. In spring you can transplant the flowering plants in the garden outdoors or in larger containers on the deck. Enjoy.

Wishy washy trustee

Trustee Doros, don't I recall that you voted to put the Civic Center Pool on the ballot last spring? And don't I remember that you voted to accept the chief's resignation? Then why in the case of the Civic Center and the pool, that you worked so hard to get it defeated? Why are you now working so hard to retain the chief? Were you bullied into voting yes each time? If you don't have the wherewithal to stand up for something when it's voted on, please don't take the opposite side when it suits your political agenda and play to whatever audience is at the board meeting. And please write down what you're going to say at the board meeting, so Ava and John will have their positions stated clearly, and stop continuing to pretend you understand what you're talking about.

Must be crazy
I'm referring to Leon Filas' article with Mr. Seidenfeld. He must be crazy. Why would I want to look at a 100-foot x 400-foot boat in the middle of Fox Lake that he referred to as the Titanic? Well, it can't sink in nine feet of water, but it will sink our

We'll vote no

I'm retired and live in the Big Hollow School District. I've talked to some of my neighbors. We will not vote to increase our taxes because some millionaire builder won't pay their share for the schools' welfare. I think these builders and land-grabbing facilities should build their own schools instead of expecting us to pay for them.

Accident is waiting

This is to the parents of the children that stand at Clinton and Rena waiting for the Grass Lake School Bus. Do you know how dangerous it is for the children standing on the east side of Rena Road? Traffic going northbound on Rena has a hill to go over, at the top of the hill there's seven children that aren't visible until the vehicle is at Clinton. The school bus that turns onto Rena off of Grass ner but then turns off its flashing red lights between the corner and Clinton. Therefore, it's not noticeable to other drivers that there will be another stop. In the meantime, the children are already running across Rena. This is an accident waiting to Jim Beverage, Grass Lake School superintendent, has been called on this matter and has been there to observe twice. The solution is easy: change the pickup time for the students on Rena to 7:50 a.m..

Cloning is wrong
I'm calling in regard to "Big deal." I don't know if the person who called about this knows that if you clone a baby, it's going to look just like the father or the mother. It will have identical fingerprints, which means if they ever do anything wrong, you both have identical fingerprints. The main point is, I don't want a baby that looks identical to me and acts identical. I want a child that's made up of my husband and I. A lot of children look like their parents, but not with the same fingerprints. I think cloning is a bad idea. I don't think we have to do that in this world.

Keep it separate

If you don't think separation of church and state is important, think of the countries at war with each other over religion. We need to keep religion out of the state and give people religious freedom. Think about that when you talk about wanting good government with religious people there. There's all kinds of religions in this world and you shouldn't have to wear it on your sleeve. Don't make other people turn to your religion. It only causes war.

Let's get classy
I live in Lake Zurich and I was watching the village board meeting on television. I can't believe they're going to allow another low-end store in Lake Zurich. We already have four stores where you can buy almost the same items. How about something classier? Or don't we deserve that in Lake Zurich? I'm sick of the building going on in this town. You can't put everything on Route 12 and then complain about the traffic.

Lake Zurich

Be careful

For those of you who are planning on filling your New Year's resolution to lose weight, do your homework before you spend your savings. Check your instructors' credentials. Are they certified? How long have they been teaching? Do they do continuing education? This way you know they're keeping you up to date on fitness trends. Many instructors get certified once and never get reinstated. Anyone can have a nutritional background and say they're a nutritionist. A registered dietitian is board certified, which requires a written and practical exam. Remember, your fitness safety is in the hands of these people. Think about

Already congested

The village of Lake Zurich is trying to get people sign a petition to have Route 22 diverted toward the Dearborn property. I think people on the east side of the village should have a petition against this. They're trying to move traffic on our side of the village. The trustees live on the west side. We're already congested over

Just a warning

I'm calling to warn people if you get pulled over and get a ticket, the officer might tell you that if you pay your ticket through the mail, you'll have 60 days suspension and it will be off your record. This is not true. You have to go to court and ask for supervision. I don't want this to happen to anyone, so this is a warning.

Delete trustee

If it is hard for Alberta Meyer to get any forms that she needs to do her duties, or Dar Folman or Jim Thillen, it's because they're on the "loser committee." They're not necessary and he'd like them all to be deleted. Fox Lake

Pick up trees

I'm responding to "Still don't have it." I agree with you. I live on Round Lake and we don't have Comedy Central on Channel 30, it's something country. Also, when is Round Lake coming to pick up the Christmas trees? We put them out and they're still not picked up. Why?

Thanks for the help

I don't know the name of the two gentlemen who helped me out at the Fox Lake Theater when they plowed

Wake up

To the people of Grayslake, wake up. Maybe the reason chief of police Dennis Koletsos isn't talking is because he doesn't want anyone to know. If someone does spill the beans, he may never get another job in law enforcement. It is possible the mayor and village board are looking out for our best interest after all.

Grayslake

You got a party
I just read in the Jan. 16 issue from

"All or none," about a person who's complaining about employees in Round Lake Beach that got a $1,500 party. They complained that teachers didn't get the same thing, and they are municipal employees. As a matter of fact, they did get a party. They got two-and-a-half weeks off with pay.

Let's push politicians
I believe it's time for all the tax-paying citizens of this county to push political representatives to get developers to pay their fair part for all the schools, infrastructure, and additional burdens they impart on the people of the county. It's not fair that folks already living here should pick up costs for new schools, etc., for those who are newly moving into these developments. The only way to do this fairly is to require an impact fee that realistically covers these costs and get it back to the taxing bodies that need it, instead of increasing present homeowners' taxes through school referendums, etc.

Love ya, Sandy

A 17-year plus employee gets transferred and Antioch Jewel suffers a major loss. After years of fantastic service, she is let go to be transferred to Fox Lake, yet managers come and go like birds in flight. Something is wrong with this picture. Please show Sandy your support. Let the manager know they've made a big boo-boo. Let her know Antioch loves her for her 17 hears of quality work.

Call in and complain

I'm calling to let everyone know that a lot of people are unhappy with TCI taking the Comedy Channel off the air. They told me that if enough people call to voice their complaints about taking the Comedy Channel off, they will make note and reconsider putting it back in the lineup. They make a note of every complaint. The reason that it was taken away was they said that not enough people were watching it. So, call and voice your complaint and it might get reinstated.

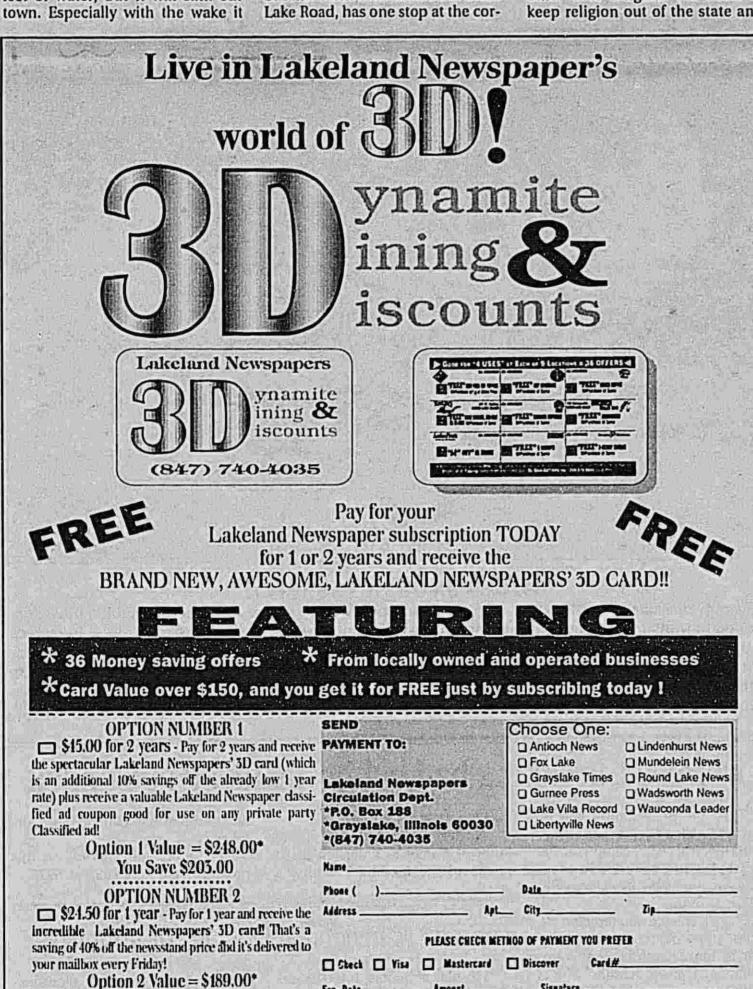

Buddies with Sue

I thought that Sue McNally had lost the election for village clerk of Fox Lake. She and Trustee Alberta Meyer are frequently putting their heads together all over town. I was wondering if Sue was doing her politicking through Alberta.

Good job, doc

Good job, Dr. Blackwell! Dr. Blackwell is the mobile veterinary service that I read about in Lakeland. We called her recently and she returned my call in five minutes and was here within two hours. She's very professional and personable. She's very comforting to talk with and very informative. I just wanted people to know that we were proud to have her as our mobile veterinarian. We're looking forward to spreading the word.

Research: neglect harms infants' brains

Lack of parental touching has biochemical effect, human and lab studies show, resulting in lifelong ills

Exploring the biology of mother love, researchers reported recently that parental care makes such a lasting impression on an infant that maternal separation or neglect can profoundly affect the brain's biochemistry, with lifelong consequences for growth and mental ability.

Children raised without being regularly hugged, caressed or stroked—deprived of the physical reassurance of normal family attention—have abnormally high levels of stress hormones, new research on Romanian orphans raised in staterun wards shows.

Moreover, new animal research reveals that without the attention of a loving caregiver early in life, some of an infant's brain cells may simply commit suicide. Although the growing brain naturally prunes cells during development—losing up to half by adulthood—the neurons in the neglected animals died at twice the rate of those in animals kept with their mothers.

"What we found shocked us," said psychologist Mark Smith at the DuPont Merck Research Labs in Wilmington, Del., who analyzed the effects of maternal deprivation in laboratory animals. "Maternal separation caused these cells in the brian to die.

"The effects of maternal deprivation may be much more profound than we had imagined," he said. "Does this have implications for humans? Frankly, I hope not, but I suspect there may be," said Smith.

Scientists have known for decades that maternal deprivation in infancy can mark children for life with serious behavioral problems, leaving them withdrawn, apathetic, slow to learn and prone to chronic illness. But a range of new research, presented recently at a meeting of the Society for Neuroscience in New Orleans, reveals for the first time the biochemical consequences of emotional neglect on the developing brain.

"It has been known for a long time that early experience is able to shape the brain and behavior," said Ron de Kloet, an expert on stress and the endocrine system at the University of Leiden in the Netherlands. "Only recently have we been able to go into the brain and measure what is actually happening in early experience."

It is the relationship between parental care, the neurobiology of touch and the chemistry of stress that lies at the heart of the new insights on how a newborn brain takes shape.

Researchers said that neglect can warp the brain's developing neural circuits so that they produce too much or too little of the hormones that control responses to stress, causing permanent changes in the way an organism behaves and responds to the world around it. In infants, high levels of stress can impair growth and development of both the brain and the body.

In animal studies, "the presence of the mother ensures these stress hormones remain at a nice low level," said Michael Meaney of the Douglas Hospital Research Centre in Montreal.

New laboratory research by Meaney and other neuroscientists key biochemicals that inhibit production of a master stress hormone called CRH.

An infant's budding nervous system is so attuned to the reassurance of a gentle, stroking touch that researchers were easily able to protect newborn mice from the most destructive biochemical effects of the stress of maternal deprivation. They simply whisked them softly with a moist paintbrush for less than a minute three times a day, de Kloet reported.

Although the growing brain naturally prunes cells during development—losing up to half by adulthood—the neurons in neglected animals died at twice the rate of those in animals kept with their mothers.

highlights the long-range biochemical consequences of neglect and the effect of maternal care on the development of brain regions that control responses to stress.

Studies with laboratory animals show that the simple act of a mother licking her pup triggers a surprisingly subtle chain of biochemical events inside the infant's brain. As the mother physically comforts her newborn, it stimulates the production of "The results demonstrated that one of the critical aspects of maternal behavior is the tactile contact between mother and infants," de Kloet said. "Stroking was able to almost completely reverse the endocrine and brain changes that are seen following maternal deprivation."

To determine whether these new laboratory insights also apply to human child-rearing, researchers are now assessing the changing brain chemistry of children and the attention they receive from their primary caregiver, be it mother, father or daycare worker.

In work presented recently, Harvard University researchers who studied Romanian infants raised in orphanages reported that when lacking the attention and stimulation typical of family life, the 2- to 3-year-old children developed abnormally high and lasting levels of the stress hormone cortisol, which can have serious long-range effects on learning and memory.

Mary Carlson, the Harvard Medical School scientist who studied the children, also discovered that youngsters whose families kept them in poor-quality day-care centers on work days had abnormal levels of stress hormones on weekdays but not on the weekend when the children were home.

The children who had the highest levels of cortisol also had the lowest scores on tests of mental and motor ability. Abnormal levels of cortisol can cause changes in the hippocampus, a structure in the brain involved in learning and memory.

"Our findings support clinical research showing that infants cared for in institutions grow slowly and have behavioral retardation," Carlson said.

This article, written by Robert Lee Hotz of the Los Angeles Times, is reprinted from the Nov. 15, 1997 edition of "The Brain in the News."

Breakthrough research

University of California at San Francisco's Dr. Anthony Muslin, above, and his colleagues, have succeeded in transforming undifferentiated embryo cells into beating heart cells (see inset) in culture by using a naturally occurring substance called transforming growth factor-beta. This research, supported by a Bristol-Myers Squibb Unrestricted Cardiovascular Research Grant, will help scientists in the ability to create new heart muscle to replace that destroyed by heart disease or heart attack, revolutionizing treatment of heart disease.—Submitted photo

'Keeping New Year promises, breaking bad habits' featured at Condell

Patricia Katherine Novick, Ph.D., MS, MA, psychologist and Healthy Lifestyles Coach, will offer special instruction about keeping New Year's resolutions and suggestions for breaking bad habits at Condell Medical Center on Monday, Jan. 26, from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Novick will coach participants in how to establish healthy behaviors and techniques for setting goals that will make it possible to change unhealthy habits and positively impact healthy lifestyles.

This free presentation will be held in the Allen Conference Center on the medical center campus at 700 Garfield Ave. in Libertyville. Reservations are requested by calling 362-2905, ext. 5770.

Novick created and directed the nation's first degree-granting program in holistic health called "Foundations of Holistic Health." She is currently a partner at the Center for the Advancement of Health in Medicine and a Scholar in Residence at the Lutheran School of Theology at the University of Chicago.

Novick was a founder of the Midwest Women's Center, and a first reader of the landmark women's health reference: Our Bodies, Ourselves.

Being aware of poisoning risks can help ensure a safer winter

With the holidays behind us, most people have repeatedly heard warnings about the dangers of drinking and driving and were reminded to shut off their Christmas tree lights when they're not at home. The Illinois Poison Center (IPC) is also asking residents to take note of five other concerns which make up a large portion of its call volume during the winter season, including depression and suicides, "date rape" drugs, carbon monoxide, antifreeze and poisonous plants

Each year, the IPC prepares for a large increase in suicide calls which peak during the holiday season, but call volume remains high because of "post-holiday blues" in January. On average, the IPC receives 10 calls a day from suicidal persons. During the months of October and November, the IPC documented 692 poisoning cases which were the result of intentional ingestion with suicidal intent or as a "suicide gesture."

In some cases, the calls came from young teenagers seeking attention by ingesting large quantities of aspirin or acetaminophen as a suicidal gesture, without really intending to kill themselves. Overdoses of these common, over-the-counter medicines produce slow but deadly symptoms that often lead to liver destruction or damage of other internal organs. "Victims may face death or liver destruction and a lifetime of immune system-suppressing drugs, when what they really were seeking was more love and attention," said IPC Director John Dellinger, PhD. "please remember to pay special attention to those around you who may be silently asking for help."

Now is also the time of the year when people are using their fireplaces and turning up the heat in their homes. These activities prompted 125 calls to the IPC concerning carbon monoxide during October and November. Faulty furnace or gas water heaters are the most common sources of carbon monoxide in the home, but supplemental heaters or improper heating using a gas oven also can lead to poisoning or death.

People should beware that flu-like symptoms can signal carbon monoxide poisoning. It also is a good idea to install carbon monoxide detectors in your home. While carbon monoxide detectors marketed before 1995 were sometimes too sensitive, they have been remanufactured with more reasonable detection levels. If your detector goes off, reset it and wait to see if it continues to go off. If it does, leave your home and then call the fire department, gas company or the IPC. If your family is experiencing flu-like symptoms, go to the emergency room immediately.

"Date rape" drugs are a relatively new concern that people need to keep in mind during parties and evenings out. These are a new breed of drugs that are used to incapacitate targeted victims for rape or robbery. Today's arsenal of "date rape" drugs include "liquid X" or GHB (gamma hydroxybutyrate), "ruffies" (Rohypnol®), and many others. When unsuspecting targets consume a drink tainted with one of these drugs, they can suffer temporary amnesia, lethargy and drowsiness. The IPC received 92 calls about these drugs during October and November.

To avoid becoming a target of these drugs, watch how your drinks are prepared, and do not drink any beverage that has been out of your sight. Trust your intuition and leave any social activity where you suspect this type of activity may occur. If you suspect you have been a victim, see your physician and ask that a blood sample be collected to freeze for gas chromatographic testing, as its is difficult detect these chemicals in routine urine or blood toxicology tests.

Poisonous plants are a concern which generate many calls to the poison center each winter season. Most people know that poinsettias, mistletoe and holly berries are poisonous, but very few cases of human illness occur because of their consumption. Unless large amounts of leaves or berries are consumed, few people have significant poisoning symptoms. Following a few simple rules will help keep your family safe while still allowing you to enjoy these festive plants:

Always label or keep a record available of the species names of all the plants in your home.

 Place plants high enough to discourage toddlers and pets from tasting the dirt and leaves.

 If you find evidence that your child has eaten a plant, remove and wash any remaining residue from the child's hands and mouth, locate the name of the plant and call the IPC.

This is also the time of year when car owners think about changing the antifreeze in their cars. During October and November, the IPC handled 44 cases of antifreeze poisoning. Typically, calls come from car owners who, in the process of changing their antifreeze, decide to siphon antifreeze from one container to another using their mouths. Mouth siphoning of any chemical is extremely dangerous. Ethylene glycol is the most common chemical in engine antifreeze, and methanol is the most common chemical in windshield-washer antifreeze. Both are very toxic chemicals that happen to taste relatively good.

Be sure to properly store antifreeze away from children and pets, and dispose of any leftover antifreeze through a waste management facility. Never leave spilled antifreeze on the floor or dump it in the street where pets can drink it. If you or your child are exposed to antifreeze, call the IPC immediately to determine whether or not you need to go to a hospital emergency department. Quick medical attention can prevent kidney damage or blindness.

The IPC also recommends purchasing some activated charcoal. Available from your local pharmacist, activated charcoal is designed to be mixed with water or carbonated beverages to make a drinkable slurry which absorbs toxins. Activated charcoal and syrup of ipecac (which induces vomiting) should be kept in hour family's medicine chest. You should never use these products without first calling th IPC or your physician, but having them readily available will help you respond quickly in the event of poisoning.

Coloring Contest held for National Children's Dental Health month

The seventh annual National Children's Dental Health Month Coloring Contest sponsored by the Illinois State Dental Society and Procter & Gamble is currently underway. The Contest is open to children in kindergarten through third grades and 144 prizes will be awarded. Entry forms are now available from participating members of the Illinois State Dental Society and no purchase is necessary to be eligible to participate or win.

This year's contest features the theme "Make Your Mouth Sing With a Super Smile." The Illinois State Dental Society and Procter & Gamble sponsor the coloring contest to remind children about the importance of oral health as a contributor to overall health. The coloring sheet below features "Flossie," the society's mascot. Participants may use any medium they like to complete the entry form, including crayons, markers, paint and/or pencils.

Entry forms must be returned to the Illinois State Dental Society at P.O. Box 376, Springfield, Illinois 62705 and postmarked by Feb. 28. Winners will be notified by April 1.

For a list of Illinois State Dental Society member dentists in your area or for additional information about the contest, call (217) 525-1406.

New advances in the treatment of prostate cancer have made it possible for many men to get back to their normal routine, even as soon as two days after treatment.

One of the treatments which provides this benefit is seed implantation, a non-surgical, outpatient procedure which places a radiation source, or "seeds", inside of the prostate. Once inside, the seeds deliver radiation directly to the prostate, attacking the cancer while you continue your normal daily routine.

Seed implantation therapy is just one of several treatment options for prostate cancer available at Midwestern Regional Medical Center, one of the most highly rated hospitals in the U.S.* Midwestern's cancer program is managed by Cancer Treatment Centers of America.

In addition to advanced medical care, Midwestern also offers support therapies including diet planning, vitamin and mineral supplementation, support groups, counseling and pastoral care.

To learn more about treatment options for prostate cancer, please call Cancer Treatment Centers of America toll-free at 1-800-940-2822.

According to police, a 22-year-old McHenry man reported he was approached by a man in the parking lot of Target, 555 S. Rand Rd., at approximately 3:30 p.m. Jan. 14. "The victim states that he was forced into the man's parked vehicle where he was compelled to perform a sex act," police said. No weapon was displayed or implied and the victim was released without harm following the incident.

"He ran back inside the store and told the manager," said Det. Tracey

A composiite sketch of the suspect was prepared by police with the victim's assistance.

The suspect is described by the victim as a white man, 40 to 45 years of age, 5-foot 10-inches tall and weighing 180 pounds, with a dark, possibly Mediterranean descent. complexion. He was further described as wearing wire-rimmed glasses, a suit and tie, and a fulllength, gray trench coat.

The suspect's vehicle was given as being a late-model, aqua-green, four-door sedan—possibly a Ford Taurus, Ford Contour or Pontiac Grand Am—with a dark-colored interior. A partial license plate of C360— was provided. Police would not comment on what has happened since the incident occurred or if any suspects have been questioned.

"It is still under investigation," Goodyear said.

Ryan puts support behind Save A Life Foundation

Atty. General will train his police force

By STEVE PETERSON Staff Reporter

Efforts of Save A Life Foundation to spread the word about the importance of cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) training gained support from Illinois Attorney General James Ryan.

Ryan directed the police officials of his office to be trained in life supporting first aid skills, including CPR.

"SALF is built on those fire-emergency medical service providers who know the chances of surviving an emergency is 50 percent greater if prompt help is given to someone in need," Carol Spizzirri, president of

"This year, we will work for national legislation for more awareness and funding allocated for EMS and bystander programs," said Spizzirri.

New chapters for SALF were established in Pennslyvania and Wisconsin in 1997.

SALF was founded in 1992 after Christina Jean Spizzirri was killed in a car crash on Labor Day. Spizzirri resides in Woodland Meadows subdivision near Gurnee.

SALF fire-EMS volunteers additionally teach local children, ages four and older, step by step instructions through "Save A Life For Kids" and the mascot, Perry Medic.

Orland Park firefighters Lt. John Vogel, Charlie Sopko, Lt. Jeff Floyd, and firefighter Jim Commey of Chicago were recognized for their efforts.

"Not only do these men and women of fire-EMS risk their own lives to save others, they are truly dedicated to the people of their community," said Spizzirri.

Tournament will raise money for ill child

Serving the community is something Lakeland Publishers does each week with its newspaper division. Sometimes that service goes one step further.

Next month, Lakeland Newspapers of Grayslake will co-sponsor the inaugural Hoops on the Oakwood!, a basketball tournament to determine the best team in Lake County that will raise funds for a needy cause.

This year, the company has chosen to donate $500 to the family of Alexandria Paris, 6, of Wauconda. Alex, as she is known by her mother, Liz Paris, older brothers Bruce and Christopher, the rest of her family and friends, underwent cancer surgery in early September 1997 to remove a plum-sized cancerous tumor from her lower right jaw muscle.

Her doctor at Children's Memorial Hospital of Chicago said the type of cancer was rare, and that he removed most of it. Alex completed sixweeks of daily radiation treatments in December, and will continue to undergo weekly chemotherapy treatments through August.

All of this has left a strain on her mother, who is separated from her husband and has been unemployed since Alex became seriously ill, leaving her with no income, or insurance to pay for Alex's mountainous medical bills.

Disabled will get help at ballot box

The General Primary Election will be held on Tuesday, March 17. "Any registered voter who is physically unable to vote at a polling place may vote by absentee ballot starting Feb. ,5," Lake County Clerk Willard Helander announced. The County Clerk's office will mail absentee ballots through Thursday, March 12. "Under certain special circumstances, a disabled voter may request voting assistance outside the polling place, usually at curbside in a car. The voter should notify our office by March 16 of this request," added Helander.

Disabled voters may enroll in the Disabled Voters Program which is intended to simplify voting for individuals who, due to a physical disability of a relatively permanent nature, cannot go to their polling place. Once the voter is enrolled in the program, the voter will automatically receive an Application for Absentee Ballot for all elections during a five year period. An application for this program may be obtained by calling 360-5912.

"We have a lot of vacant buildings in Mundelein," Whelan said. "I think it could be a money maker for her, it is a possibility."

There are not many places for teen-agers to congregate in Mundelein without causing a potential disturbance. Whelan's son knows of two teen clubs-Jam 'N Java in Lindenhurst and Dave 'N Busters in Addison-both which are a far drive away.

"We would just love to have something so good come out of something so bad," Whelan said.

Lake official praises the Kemper Award recipient

Lake County Coroner Barbara Richardson has praised Lake Forest Civic Leader David Amory for his longtime service to the Northern III. Council on Alcoholism and Substance Abuse (NICASA), the Lake Forest Hospital, the Evans Scholarship Foundation, the College of Lake County and other organizations.

Amory, a retired vice president of Johnson and Higgins, Chicago, received the James S. Kemper, Jr., Humanitarian Award, (Jan. 10) at the annual Angel Ball dinner dance sponsored by the Women's Board of NICASA at the Deerpath Inn, Lake Forest.

Richardson, the 1996 recipient of the award, compared Amory to the David of David and Goliath fame.

"In the original story, David's job was to look after the sheep on the family farm and he was very good at his job," Richardson said.

'In comparison, our David's job likewise has been to look after a different kind of flock-called not-forprofit organizations." She said he has shepherded his flock effectively for more than 20 years.

Richardson cited some of Amory's many accomplishments:

· President of the Princeton University Alumni Board and mentor for Project 55 which placed Princeton interns at not-for-profit organizations in the Chicagoland area.

· Director of the Western Golf Assn. He helped raise funds for the Evans Scholarship Foundation, the largest scholarship program in the country.

· President of the Lake County Republican Federation from 1978 to 1985.

· Member of the Chicago YMCA Board, Lake Forest Hospital endowment committee and the College of Lake County Foundation.

 Member of NICASA's board since 1985, president from 1988 to 1994 and a current member of the board's executive committee.

Like the David who successfully fought-and brought down-Goliath, Amory wasn't afraid to face gigantic challenges, Richardson said.

"Positively, he always answers "yes" to any request," Richardson said. "Fearlessly, he always steps forward to face the giant head on. Then, quite simply and without fanfare, just does the job that needs to be done."

Amory and his wife Mary, have raised three children. They were married in 1960.

First recipient of the Kemper Humanitarian Award was its namesake who was honored in 1993 for his pioneering work in the development of alcohol rehabilitation programs for employees as well as many other contributions. Other recipients include Rear Admiral Mack C. Gaston, retired commander of the Great Lakes Naval Training Center, and Teresa and Charles Bartels, owners of Manpower Temporary Services of Northeastern Illinois.

Chairing the Angel Ball were Sarah Catterson and Cindy Simmons. Committee members were Marsha Christoffel, Laurel Dahl, Valery Gallagher, Barbara Richardson, Cindy Schwab, Carol Schaffer, Denise Vickers, Kathy White-Cohen and Karey Wittenborn.

Major sponsors of the fundraiser were Kemper Insurance Companies, Motorola, Abbott, Dahl Enterprises, First Midwest Bank, Harris Bank-Libertyville, Integrationware, LaCosta, Manpower, McDonald's Corp. and Revere Electric. In-kind donations were provided by Abbott's Creative Network and BAT Graphics.

A DIGEST OF STORIES MAKING HEADLINES THROUGHOUT OUR REGION

Martin: improper handling of funds Libertyville—It's the "tip of the iceberg."

That's what financial watchdog and Libertyville resident Jack Martin said this week about allegations he has made concerning Libertyville Township General Assistance funds.

Martin, in a letter to local newspapers, said that township Supervisor F.T. "Mike" Graham's recent announcement of his intentions to pay back his family's portion of the federal debt was made to "cover up and divert attention from some illegal acts since becoming Township Supervisor."

Graham said the allegations have no merit, and labeled the move as politically motivated.

"Everything is on the up and up," said Graham. "This is a prelude to the county board campaign."

Trustee resigns a year early

Gurnee-Change is in the air on the Gurnee Village Board.

Trustee Tracie Bullock's resignation is expected to be accepted Jan. 26 meeting. Her seat will be up for election in spring, 1999.

Gurnee Mayor Richard Welton said Bulllock "made a great contribution to the board."

"I enjoyed public service up until about a year ago. There was no positive benefits. Being trustee became a thankless task," Bullock said. "I have been talking about not running for re-election with fellow board members for several months. It became such a negative that I decided to resign over the holidays. My priority is my children. When I first got elected I was able to balance the two. Gurnee was growing at a rapid rate. Now that the growth has slowed down, we are speding a great deal of time on minor issues. That has increased the amount of time commitment greatly," Bullock said.

Donald Rudny, plan commission chairman, said he is interested in being appointed to fill out the term.

Catholic education open house set

Antioch-Parents may explore facilities and meet St. Peter School faculty in a variety of formats and times during Catholic Schools Week, Jan. 26 to 30.

"It's an opportunity to open doors to welcome people and show them what we do in a Catholic school," said Principal Patricia Dieveney. She said that the school has strong academic programs that prepare students for the future. "It is Catholic, so they are receiving a Christian values-oriented education every day," she said.

The school will host an open house after the 9:30 a.m. Mass on Sunday, Jan. 25 at St. Peter Church. "At the Sunday open house, people can apply for registration," Dieveney

There will be special programs at the school during the remainder of the week. The special programs celebrate the contributions of parish and pastoral members, faculty and staff, school volunteers, parents, and students.

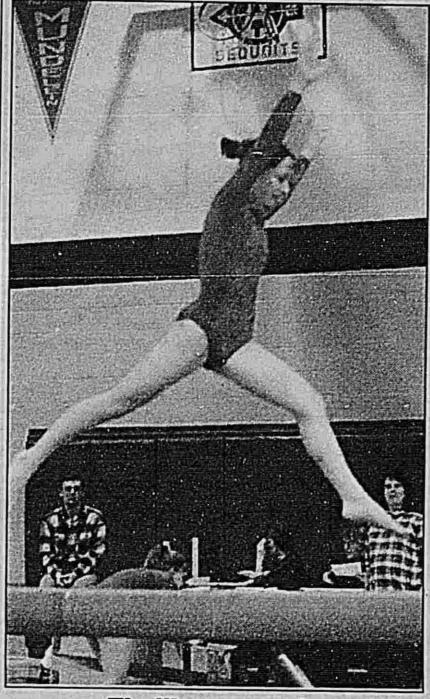

"We want people to feel welcome, to feel that we have good teachers, and that the children like being here, (that) they feel comfortable being here," Dieveney said. There are 285 students at the school, twelve classrooms and teachers, and additional part-time teachers who offer music, sports, art, and computer education. "

Land annexed for subdivision

Wauconda—Village trustees annexed approximately 47 acres of land west of Ivanhoe Road at Route 59, northeast of Route 12 in unincorporated Lake County into the village that will someday be developed into a residential subdivision.

The unusual circumstance of approving an annexation agreement not coupled with petitions for land rezoning and preliminary plat of subdivision approval occurred at the Jan. 20 village board meeting, due to Wauconda's restricted sewer status imposed by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency.

Ed A. Augustin Sr., executive vice president of the James Investment Company, of Lake Barrington, seemed somewhat pleased with the approval of the companies annexation agreement by a 7-0 vote. "Nothing will happen until the Illinois EPA lifts their restricted status and the village lifts their moratorium," Augustin said.

Residents to meet block captains

Lindenhurst—Community residents meet Tuesday, Jan. 27 at Village Hall to identify block captains for the Neighborhood Watch Programs in the village. Ways to initiate programs in new areas will be discussed. There is a new Lindenhurst area telephone number for program information, and a multi-village support network has begun to emerge in the county.

Tuesday's open community meeting at village hall at 7 p.m. will introduce initial block captains for watch groups and seek out participation by other interested people.

"We're trying to make this (program) organized between communities as well as within communities," said Rebecca Albrecht, initial program organizer. "We have a network happening now between different communities," she said. "The Waukegan, Gurnee, Venetian Village, and Lindenhurst Neighborhood Watch Programs are starting to network."

Lindenhurst neighborhood watch participants meet at Lindenhurst Village Hall, 2301 East Sand Lake Road.

Former LCHS man shows (under) wears

Libertyville—A former Libertyville Community High School student will be getting his fair share of exposure in the coming months, high above New York City's Times Square.

Charles West, 33, who is currently part of the cast of the Broadway musical "The Scarlet Pimpernel," will be featured on a billboard advertisement for Jockey underwear to be unveiled in a few weeks.

West will be showcased with six other Broadway performers from shows such as "Rent," "Miss Saigon" and "Bring in Da Noise, Bring in Da Funk," on the billboard dressed in costume from their respective shows, with their pants around their ankles. The billboard will be erected on Broadway, between 41st and 42nd, in late February or early

Township updates key sales

Lake Villa-Township officials approved updated park ordinances with new information about boat launches on Lake Miltmore and Sand Lake.

Township Supervisor Sue Hanson said that updated information in the ordinance relates to the sale of keys on the boat launches. Keys are sold to people who use launch areas. In addition, township residents need a vehicle sticker to park their vehicles in parking lots at township parks. The stickers are free of

Ordinance 98 was passed at the Jan. 13 meeting and will be available to interested residents after April 1.

Lake County Sheriffs Office suggested a township sticker program to manage park use by people from outside the township. There also will be tow-away signs posted.

'Anyone in the township that wants to use the parks-such as the Miltmore Beach-will need a sticker if they are parking at the parks. Stickers are free. But, people do need a sticker if they are parking at the facilities.

Bill's Pizza gets permit

ed in Mundelein, finally have the special use permit they need to open a restaurant in Third Lake.

Bill's Pub North will be built on land along Washington Street, west of Route 45. The project has been held up for several months due to disagreements over the plan.

The special use permit was approved by the village board with a 4-2 vote. The ordinance was revised on issues concerning parking, signs and landscaping. The owners will also have to submit an outdoor lighting study done by an expert prior to opening.

Millburn changes assessments

Wadsworth-Millburn District 24 is changing the way it assess impact fees on new development.

Following the lead of Antioch District 34 they are leveling the fees to make them even for all dwellings based on the number of bedrooms rather than the type of on the number of bedrooms rather than the type of dwelling.

This means if a developer builds a complex of three bedroom apartments the impact fees will be the same as those of a three bedroom single family home.

The change was made at the suggestion of Superintendent Jim Menzer. He explained to the board a demographer hired by Dist. 34 discovered the attached three-bedroom dwellings in their district including condominiums, townhomes and apartments, generated the same number of students as a single family home.

Lakehurst's future viewed as Expo urnee Mayor Dick Welton probably will gag and Waukegan Sunrise sparkplug Jack Potter no doubt will get heartburn, but what about transforming struggling Lakehurst Shopping Center into Lake County's much talked about exposition and convention center?

Gurnee officials and advocates for downtown Waukegan revitalization have been whooping up plans for a Lake County Expo with good reason. With its strategic location and rapidly growing population, Lake County is ready for a regional meeting and convention center. But both projects appear to need a whole lot more time on the drawing board.

Meanwhile, with more store closings, Lakehurst's future as a major retail center is more in doubt that ever. Just too much competition from Gurnee Mills and Hawthorn Mall, not to mention current and future strip malls. Lakehurst has been on the block for $30 million for six months. It's time to look at uses other than retail.

Lakehurst would have a lot going for it as an exposition center.

Location. Infrastructure. Parking. Transportation. Convenience.

Zoning. Established for public use. Most importantly: Filling an economic need. Lakehurst's 1.1 million square feet and 80 acre site seem ripe for convention/meeting purposes with an adjacent mixture of speciality shops, restaurants, offices and hotel/motel accommodations. Without a doubt, a convention center will compliment Lake County's burgeoning tourist industry.

Lakehurst enjoyed 20 years success as a retail powerhouse before overtaken by age and changing shopping patterns. Now it's time for a new chapter. Let's talk about Lakehurst Expo!

Future Cardinal George: new voice, new leader ver since the Catholic Archdiocese of Chicago made the World War I era decision to acquire a heavily wooded area in Lake County to establish a seminary for the training of priests, interest has run high among non-Catholics alike in diocesen leadership.

Residents of the new home of St. Mary of the Lake Seminary felt so honored that they renamed their town Mundelein in honor of Cardinal George Mundelein, the spiritual leader of Chicago area Catholics from 1915 to 1939. The historic Eucharistic Congress held in Mundelein, a highlight of the 1920s, bringing together believers from around the world, only served to highten interest in affairs of the diocese.

So it is that the impending elevation of Archbishop Francis E. George is looked up with great interest—and pride—by persons of all faiths. While fully anticipated, Archbishop George's investisure Feb. 21 will be cause for celebration.

At age 61, the future cardinal may even eclipse Cardinal Mundelein's 24 years, the longest period of service for a cardinal in the Chicago archdiocese. Archbishop George has established a reputation as a hands-on, sometimes blunt leader, a marked contrast to his predecessor, the scholarly and revered Joseph Cardinal Berndine. Most importantly, George is aggressive at a time when many problems confront the church and the community, and above all, he is accessible to both fellow churchmen and the community at large. He faces a bright future as a prince of the church and we add our voice to those wishing him God's blessings.

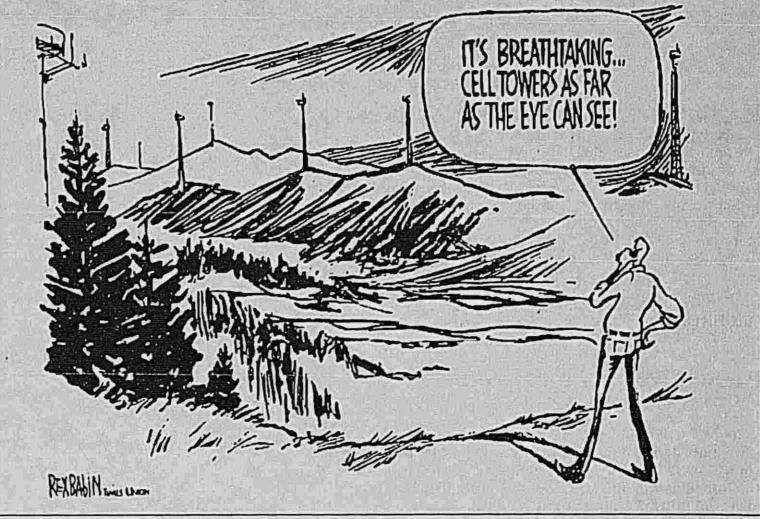

New school houses aid educational pride

n the sea of rooftops fanning out in central Lake County, stand nearly a dozen homes that share a common distinction. They were built by teenagers, students in the building trades class at the Lake County Technology Campus on Washington St.

Launched in 1978, the class has been constructing conventional stick built homes in two year cycles working three daily two-hour shifts. Sale of the homes provides profits to purchase a site and materials for the next project. The class is comprised of students who are looking for a career in the construction trades or learning skills they can put to good use later in life.

Purchasers of the student-built homes consider them "diamonds" because many popular upgrades are included for the cost of essentially materials, land purchase and a modest markup.

The efforts of 16 and 17-year-olds are impressive. The tech school stands as a beacon that modern education still has a practical side. These are "school houses" in which everyone can take justifiable pride.

VIEWPOINT

Two issues dominate county board politics

or nearly 30 years, County
Board elections have usually turned on two issues—
Republican solidarity and land use policy. There are no indications that 1998, particulary in the March 17 primary, will change that pattern.

Since the GOP is the dominant political party with leadership that has supported urbanization in one form or another, the argument can be made that the Republican primary decides both questions. Whether they don't understand what's at stake with land use policy or don't have the stomach to challenge developer and real estate interests, Democrats are content with a power broking role or pick up crumbs. They're totally gun shy over assuming a leadership role in shaping Lake County's destiny.

With 15 of the County Board's 23 seats up for election this year, 1998 shapes up as a pivitol election. This year's election will determine whether a trend toward independence in Republican ranks and a swing back to more controlled growth and less dictates by land owners evidenced in 1996 was a fluke or a solid trend.

Nowhere is what's at stake more apparent than in the stateline area of County Board Dist. 2, which has the most candidates and the least population of any district in the county. Dist. 2 is rural Newport Township with parts of Zion and Waukegan—an odd mixture of open countryside, established city environment and a splash of urban sprawl.

Proposed expansion of Waukegan Regional Airport, a thriving facility that is an integral part of the local economy, has sparked the candidacy of Republican Loretta McCarley, a nurse who wants to stop the airport dead in its tracks.

Republicans Betty Rae Kaiser and Larry Jones are after the mantle of retiring County Board Rep. Bob Neal, who is giving up the trials and tribulations of running for elected office for a cushy state job. Kaiser and Jones are party regulars. To them, holding office is a job with public issues to decide only periodic irritants. Either will follow party dictates in typical Republican top-down style leadership. The fourth Republican candidate is Chuck Johnson, who operates a donut business.

Johnson was recruited by County Board Rep. Jim LaBelle(R-Zion) and is looked up as a spoiler. But if he's taking his cues from LaBelle, a pro adept at straddling the line between independence and following party subservience to land interest campaign donors, what's Johnson trying to spoil?

After redoubtable Sam Payne Sr. was knocked off the ballot due to a technicality, Democrat Jeanne Hewitt is uncontested, her party's nominee by default to challenge whoever emerges from the bruising Republican primary. The attitude toward growth and development will be a party litmus test in Dist. 2 as it is elsewhere in the county.

Dist 2 will be watched closely, a microcosim of Lake County politics. In the 14 other districts, the names are different but the issues—as usual—are the same.

Piano magic

Chris and Bill Govas, and their son Gus, hosts at the famed Country Squire, deserve praise for preserving a dying art—cocktail piano. The Govas' make sure the beautiful black Yamaha in their reception area gets a good workout to add to the enjoyment of weekend diners.

Once a month, they showcase the keyboard stylings of Skip Green, a resident of suburban Lombard whose ability and taste matches any pianist in the Chicago area. John O'Keefe has built up an enthusiastic following providing favorite tunes as the regular Country Squire weekend musician. At the keyboard for Sunday brunch is John Sakellaridis, who is impossible to stump when requests are made. Three artists. Call it the Country Squire Piano Trifecta!

Working happy

Dr. Dan LaVista, former president of the College of Lake County, couldn't be happier in his new post as president of McHenry Community College. He took over his new duties July 1, succeeding a popular educator who had served 21 years. The LaVistas are moving into a home in Crystal Lake. "I'm 10 minutes from the office," exclaimed LaVista, who obviously is thrilled about being back in the midwest after an unhappy experience trying to untangle a political thicket that masquerades as a community college system in Baltimore.

Name change

Can't help but like the new name of Mundelein Against The Tollway (MATT). Now the folks fighting the Rte. 53 extention that would wipe out a lot of backyards in Mundelein will be known as North Corridor Against the Tollway (NORCAT). Executive Director Deb Giles said the name change won't affect their address, phone or fax numbers. From MATTs to CATs, you might say.

New secretary

There was a new secretary on the job Wednesday night when the Lake County Council Navy League of the U.S. met at Great Lakes. Katie Paul, secretary extraordinary, turned over duties to Nancy Magee of Heather Ridge. Katie isn't heading out to pasture, just turning to other community service endeavors, including the local radio station. Paul, a resident of Zion, is an excellent example that volunteer organizations rise and fall on the capabilities of the secretary. The county council is good because Katie was great.

Pack repeat

Thought you'd like to know. Packers 27, Broncos 17 in the Super Bowl. I don't wear a green cap emblazoned with a gold G for nothing. Even though we live so close to Cheeseland, it still takes courage around here to show Green Bay colors. Last summer I wore my Packers cap to a golf outing and a bunch of guys at the bar booed and hissed. I never found out if they were serious, but I gave them plenty of elbow room.

One man's family

What's so wonderful for grandparents is that the pre-schoolers provide an endless list of remarkable achievements. Just after learning that Erika is doing spin moves in the saddle of her riding class pony, John baked and frosted his dad's birthday cake. Guess that's why grandparents love to exchange pictures—and tall tales.

PARTY LINES

PARTY LINES, THE LAKELAND NEWSPAPERS' COLUMN OF POLITICAL OPINION, IS PREPARED FROM STAFF REPORTS.

Durkin takes classy step

Durkin, not even through the first year of his latest term, will be setting some sort of Lake County political record for lame duck status. His early announcement of serving a final term (to 2001) will provide plenty of time for would-be successors to position themselves. A class move.

Certainly bi-partisan

Since a Democrat and Republican have been the most vocal commentators on formation of the new Uniform Development Ordinance for Lake County, the document will have a definite bi-partisan tone.

Speaking on the UDO with gusto have been Rep. Carol Spielman (D-Highland Park) and Rep. Al Westerman (R-Warren Township). Both of them are joking that UDO deliberations have become known as the Al and Carol Show. Better than Jerry Springer.

Weighty issues

Fox Lake Mayor Jim Pappas may be losing weight but he's not losing any sleep over discord on the village council stirred by holdover trustees opposed to reform. "We're heading in the right direction," Pappas avowed. "Besides, my weight now is the same as when I got out of the Navy," beamed Pappas as evidence he's pushing forward—not away from the table.

Smith's supporters

Wille R. Smith, former Lake County Undersheriff, and now a Republican candidate for Sheriff, welcomed supporters at his recent campaign headquarters opening.

Mike Mueller, Smith's campaign manager, made known his reasons for backing Smith, calling him the "most experienced candidate."

Mueller went on to say that Smith, as a lifelong Lake County resident, "is far more aware of Lake County's needs than the opponent."

Speilman: Teams up with pal Al in roadshow

Pappas: Pushing forward

Magalis: Takes lobbying job

Del Re's army

While Smith's backers were pledging their support, incumbent Lake County Sheriff, Gary Del Re, found quiet a bit of support his own self. The Lake County Chiefs of Police Association announced their unanimous support of Del Re — all 140 members. The association lauded Del Re's work to provide many county-wide programs, "beneficial to the safety and protection of the 550,000 residents residing in Lake County."

Mundelein top cop, Chief
Raymond J. Rose said, "Sheriff
Del Re represents the epitome of law enforcement professionalism. I urge citizens to strongly support him."

Bitter words

Former Director and Treasurer of the Lake County Soil and Water Conservation District, Elwood A. Brent, resigned his post as of Jan. 13, with some bitter words. Brent said working for the district had become virtually impossible to carry out its mission.

Brent said what he felt about the situation mattered little, but what mattered was that, "the District's parent agency has neither the power nor the inclination to step up and solve problems like voting rights, which has harmed the District's reputation and distracted it from worthwhile endeavors.

"I choose to no longer be associated with this shameful situation which has become an embarrassment to me," added Brent.

They like lke

Former Lake County Administrator Dwight "Ike" Magalis, didn't rest too long after taking early retirement in December, landing a job lobbying the state legislature on behalf of Illinois' largest counties.

Magalis was recently named the executive director for Metro Counties of Illinois, a not-for-profit organization which he helped found. He will represent the state's 12 largest counties as they struggle with urban growth issues. Magalis served Lake County for 32 years, becoming the state's only county administrator in 1977.

Will our obits do us justice?

lady, at 87, went to her eternal reward recently, and in her obituary was a quote from her daughter: "She was a woman of incomparable grace."

What a neat way to remember your mom, and to have the world remember her.

I have been collecting such obits, in which everyday slugs such as you and I shuffle off to the sweet by-and-by. Too often, it's without a fitting tribute. Most death notices are shortchanged as grieving survivors merely fill in blanks on a funeral-home form.

But famous folks always get g'awing tributes, even though, as we know, they are no better than we are, if as good. The media has their flattering obits prepared and ready to run, updated to the moment.

I liked Cher's eulogy for Sonny Bono, who sometimes was suspected of not being terribly bright: "He was smart enough to turn an introverted 16-year-old girl and a scrawny Italian guy with a bad voice into the most beloved television couple of his generation."

People magazine's New Year's edition paid homage to celebrities we lost last year. Actress Raquel Welch remembered Jimmy Stewart as "a real, straight-ahead good guy."

Actress Kathy Garver said of actor Brian Keith, "He loved the work for the pure joy of acting, but he didn't like the hoopla or the publicity. He was his own man. He wouldn't take any guff."

n't take any guff."

"Seinfeld" actor Michael
Richards said of comedian Red Skelton: "When I was 12, I used to have my mother drive me to Beverly Hills, and I would walk in front of his house hoping to meet him. I never did until four years ago; I was asked to induct him into the Comedy Hall of Fame. I was dwarfed by his grace, his charm, his heart."

THE PFARR CORNER Jerry Pfarr

Former Massachusetts Gov.
Michael Dukakis, about former
Sen. Paul Tsongas, "He would go out to a neighborhood park and pick up litter, while he was running for the presidency. He didn't do this for the cameras, there were no cameras around."

Here are some lines from local obits, about everyday folks, that I've saved:

A young man who died at 23 left behind "his beloved pets, Skip, Midnight, Mama, Mystic, Merline and Sparkle."

A Libertyville man who died at 51 "will always be remembered as the nicest guy in the world."

A Waukegan woman was remembered for her "courageous and dignified battle against leukemia. It cut short the life of a vibrant woman who brought grace, charm, good will and humor to the many who loved and admired her."

About a man who died at 87: "His sense of humor brought joy to the people around him."

An editor I knew had all of his reporters write, in advance, their own obits. It was partly just in fun but also just in case. Maybe we all should be so prepared.

Mulling mine, so far all I can offer is, "He was always kind to animals and sometimes kind to people."

That isn't much, I admit, but hopefully it will get me through the Pearly Gates.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Are election laws being abused?

believe there is something terribly wrong with the election laws in the state of Illinois and there is something wrong with some of our elected officials who I believe violate the spirit and the intent of these laws.

I believe that the election laws are designed to eliminate fraud from the election process. Some people apparently believe they are designed to eliminate the competition for whatever petty reason they or their pro-bono lawyers can come up with.

Amazingly, those candidates that the old guard Republicans in Lake County seem to want to remain in office or take office either were successful in eliminating their competition or were successful in finding a technicality that allowed them to remain on the ballot in spite of flaws in their petition, i.e. Newton, Beattie and Osmond. What the law, written by incumbent politicians by the way, has allowed these people to do is to invalidate the will of those voters who chose to support various candidates for election. We in Vernon Hills are no strangers to challenged petitions. Year after year, the select few use these laws to eliminate the competition and therefore our choice in the election process, i.e., the elimination in recent elections of Bill Wolfe, Al Israel, etc.

We are lead to believe that these people who use these laws to eliminate our choices are doing so for our own good. I believe it was Don Hook, former Vernon Hills trustee, who said that these petitions are a litmus test of one's ability to serve the public. His biggest error may have been that the challenge was one too many as he is no longer a trustee.

And Pam Newton said something to the effect that if you can't follow all the rules you are not competent to serve.

Like all incumbents never make any errors whatsoever. (Can you say new County logo for $104,000 or $600,000 to study the Yorkhouse Rd. extension?) Can I assume that when I get a copy of Newton's petition, if I find one mistake of any kind she will resign her position as County Board Member?

Can I assume she will be asking her fellow board member, David Stolman, to resign for the errors he made in his petition? He is after all incompetent by her standard. And will Beattie resign? If Osmond has an error will he resign? Will the whole county board resign because they all must have at least one error? Not likely. You know what they say about that word ASS-U-ME.

I believe the laws need to be changed so that proof of intent to defraud is required and that those who I believe are abusing these laws should be removed from office due to their arrogant waste of taxpayers' money spent on hearing their challenges in the interest of their own self-preservation. And I believe that there need to be changes made regarding who is chosen to sit on the panel to hear these cases, both at the local and county level. Maybe Senator Link could work on this? In the interim, only we can make changes come this March and November.

Taking it to the next level visit with a lot of small-business owners. I hear two comments most often: "I'm so swamped I'll never get caught up," and "If I could get a bank to loan me more money, I could make more money."

I don't have to ask too many questions of these entrepreneurs to find that they are mired in a mud hole named "busy." This common situation causes all owners some frustration from time to time.

Often the owners' initial success leaves them so busy doing, that they don't have the time or energy to move their business to the next level. Unfortunately, if the owners get stuck in this mode, they may never execute the steps necessary to grow their businesses and improve operations.

Seven Steps

Here are some tips for climbing out of the mire and taking your business to a higher level.

 Revisit your original plan. You need a simple plan to act as a guide to establish direction for your

Your plan should help you answer these questions: Are we achieving what we set out to do? What business are we really in? Who are our target customers? Is there really a demand for what we sell? Are we reaching the sales and profit levels we originally projected? In what areas do we need to adjust and refocus our plan for success?

 Know what really drives your business. These are your "Critical Success Factors (CSFs)." Business drivers will vary from business to business.

A business writer might list a CSF as a working database of publishers, editors and publications who purchase articles regularly. A restaurant might focus on service, consistent quality and cleanliness. A plumber might consider quick response and a wide inventory of parts as CSFs.

· Break each CSF into measurable goals. You must reduce each factor into achievable, measurable objectives. Build results by analyzing the steps you must take to be successful.

For example, assume an insurance agent wishes to sell five policies each week. He knows that one customer in three buys (a CSF), so he must schedule at least 15 appointments each week to reach his goal.

• Find the money. There is a difference between being busy, and making money. Some CSFs will lead to greater profit, while others won't. If you need capital to move, your business to the next level, focus on short-term factors with the greatest yield.

Know what makes money for you. You must have good records of income and expenses for this analy-

· Stay ahead of your competitors. To do this you must know who your competitors are, and what they are doing.

I recently consulted with a small-business owner who didn't know her competitor's price for the same service she offered. She was losing business, but didn't know

 Do what you do well. All too often I find owners who are spread too thin. They are trying to do too many things in their business. In addition, the business itself may be too broadly focused.

The owner should focus all of his or her efforts on the 20 percent

Developer to conduct townhome auction

Rick Levin & Associates, Inc., a Chicago-based real estate auction marketing firm, announced it will conduct a multiple-property auction of residential and commercial properties including townhomes in Fox Lake and Woodstock. The auction will take place at 1 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 15 at the Rosemont Suites located at 5500 N. River Road in Rose-

"The owners of these properties have decided to offer them via auction to eliminate the time and expense associated with a conventional marketing program," said Rick Levin, president of Rick Levin & Associates, Inc. "They may then pass the savings along to the bidders at the Feb. 15 auction. The owners of these properties have also shown their great motivation to sell by offering many of the properties absolute, regardless of price."

Properties in the auction include:

 Five deluxe townhomes located at Rainier Woods in Fox Lake: These two-story townhomes feature up to 1,756 sq. ft., two and three bedrooms, 1.5 and 2.5 baths, fireplace, gourmet kitchen, designer interiors, laundry areas, walk-out basement, attached 2-car garage and much more. Originally priced up to $210,000, these townhomes have suggested opening bids from $75,000. Two of the townhomes will be sold absolute, regardless of price. Open houses are scheduled from 1 to 3 p.m.

on Jan. 25, 31, Feb. 1, 7, 8 and 14.
• Six brand new townhomes located at Hidden Valley in Woodstock: Located in an idyllic setting with scenic views, these luxury townhomes feature up to 1,662 sq. ft., up to three bedrooms and 2.5 baths, gourmet kitchen, full basement, 2-car garage and much more. Originally priced up to $254,000, these quality-constructed town-homes have suggested opening bids from $75,000. Two of the townhomes will be sold absolute, regardless of price. Open houses are scheduled from 1 to 3 p.m. on Jan. 25, 31, Feb. 1, 7, 8 and 14.

Other properties in the auction include townhomes in Posen, a single-family home in Chicago, a commercial building in Broadview and a single-family home in Vandalia, Mich.

Complete bidder's information packages are available at the scheduled open houses. Excellent financing is available to qualified buyers on all properties. A cashier's check, as earnest money, is required to bid. For a color brochure on the auction, call Rick Levin & Associates, Inc. at (312) 715-1500 or visit their web site at www.ricklevin.com.

Agency names local women to board of directors

Family Services of South Lake County has named two new members to its board: Ellen Hirsch and Barbara Cardinal.

Hirsch is director of staffing for W. W. Grainger, Inc. She is responsible for leading the company's staffing process.

She is also a member of both the Elie Wiesel Committee and National Advisory Board that focuses on significant employee relocation industry trends. Hirsch will be a member of the Development Committee while serving on the board. She attended Northeastern Ill. University and graduated with honors with a B.A. in elementary education with an emphasis in art.

Hirsch, her husband and their daughter reside in Highland Park.

Cardinal is employed by Walgreen's as manager of compensation in the human resources department.

She has served as president of the Chicago Compensation Assn. and regional vice president of American Compensation Assn. She is cochairman of the United Way of Walgreen's. Besides being on the board, she will serve on the Personnel Com-

Cardinal graduated from Douglass College and Rutgers University with a B.A. in education and english.

Born in New Jersey, Cardinal has lived in Illinois for 25 years. She lives with her husband in Lincolnshire.

Family Services of South Lake County provides a variety of programs for families, including therapy, counseling education and support. The agency's clients include children of all ages, parents and expectant parents, and the elderly. Based in Highland Park, the agency has branch offices in Lake Zurich, Lake Forest, and Barrington.

TCI makes temporary changes for Digital Cable

With the soon-to-be-introduced TCI Digital Cable product coming to TCI of Northeast Illinois, there will be many changes and new options available to customers in the Waukegan based system. TCI will begin to offer up to 36 additional video and 10 audio channels to customers on top of their current analog cable packages through this valuable new product.

According to TCI of Northeast Illinois General Manager Paul Ashley, "In order to provide the channel space for the expanded programming, it will be necessary to temporarily remove and relocate some of the existing analog channels currently available to customers."

The Cartoon Network will move from channel 54 to channel 24. Spice will be temporarily removed. This will occur beginning Feb. 16 until the Digital Cable product is introduced in March.

"The expanded channel space will enable TCI to deliver even more entertainment programming to customers," Ashley said. "With TCI Digital Cable, customers will also benefit from a new, interactive onscreen guide and Parental Control technology that is effective and easy to use."

Atty. Patrick Salvi to speak at Trial Lawyers Assn. seminars

Patrick A. Salvi, who leads Salvi and Schostok, P.C., a personal injury firm in Waukegan, is making regular appearances as a featured speaker at various Illinois Trial Lawyers Assn. meetings and seminars.

At ITLA's December meeting at the Drake Hotel in Chicago, the main topic was the Medical Malpractice Trial, and Salvi's presentation was titled, "Demonstrative Evidence: The Winning Plaintiff's Case-in-Chief."

On Feb. 16, again at the Drake, an ITLA seminar will explore "The Death of Tort Reform: Negotiating and Settling Personal Injury Cases," and Salvi will discuss "The Art of Negotiation."

Salvi and Schostok, P.C., limits its practice to representing victims of serious personal injury, medical malpractice and wrongful death cases throughout Illinois, and its lawyers are also licensed in Wisconsin, Michigan, Arizona and Florida.

In the last several years, Salvi's firm has won 31 multi-million and million dollar jury verdicts and set-

Child tax credit starts in 1998

The Jackson Hewitt Tax Service experts remind you that a new child tax credit will take effect in 1998. Parents can take a $400 credit for a qualifying child under age 17. The credit increases to $500 per qualifying child for years after 1998. A qualifying child is an individual for whom the taxpayer claims a dependency exemption and who is the son, daughter, grandchild, stepchild, or eligible foster child of the taxpayer.

"Anyone with questions about the child tax credits can call 740-7500 according to Anthony Nuzzo, Jr., general manager of Jackson Hewitt in Round Lake Beach and Fox Lake. "The credit is phased out by $50 for each $1,000 of the taxpayer's modified adjusted gross income in excess of $110,000 for married taxpayers filing jointly, $55,000 for married taxpayers filing separately, and $75,000 for single taxpayers. The credit is generally non refundable and can only reduce the taxpayer's income tax. However, families with three or more qualifying children may be entitled to a credit in excess of their tax liability."

Formed in 1982, and based in Virginia Beach, Va., Jackson Hewitt is the second largest tax preparation service system in the United States with locations in 41 states. The company expects to have approximately 2,000 offices in operation during this or anyone who is saving money for retirement. higher education or a new home, Congress has finally provided you with a wonderful new tax-free account, a Roth IRA. The Roth IRA was one of the new benefits provided in the Taxpayer Relief Act of 1997.

A Roth IRA is unlike any savings accounts that has ever existed. An individual can invest up to $2,000 ($4,000 for husband and wife) per year into this account. Unlike a traditional IRA, there is no tax deduction for this contribution, but all the money grows on a tax-deferred basis and you can withdraw all of your money tax-free. Individuals with an annual adjusted gross income below $90,000 ($150,000 for joint filers) can qualify.

Roth IRA's are primarily used for retirement savings, but there are many "qualified" ways to withdraw money tax-free before retirement.

These are:

1. higher education expenses; 2. qualified first time home buy-

3. qualified medical care expenses or health insurance premi-

4. age 59.5 years or older; 5. substantially equal payments

based upon life expectancy; 6. death or disability of account

If you withdraw from your Roth

IRA before age 59.5 for any reason other than the above, your original principal will be considered the first amount withdrawn and therefore, not taxable (you have already paid taxes on this amount). Any of the earnings withdrawn before age 59.5 except for the above Items will be taxable at your regular tax rate plus you will pay a 10 percent penalty.

The government will allow you to convert any of your existing IRA accounts into Roth IRA's, thus making them tax-free, as well. However, before converting you should be aware that the value of the existing account would become taxable.

You will have four years in which to pay the taxes and can only qualify for this benefit if your adjusted gross income is less than $100,000. You should consider making the conversion if you feel your tax rate will ultimately increase or the idea of tax-free income in retirement is appealing to

If you anticipate expenses for higher education or the purchase of a first home (or a new home if you have not been a homeowner for more than two years) you should consider investing in the Roth IRA. Because the growth on your investment is tax-free, it will accumulate much faster than in a taxable account.

For instance, assuming you are in the 28 percent tax bracket, investing $2,000 a year for an 18 year period, with a return of 8 percent, you will have an accumulation of $74,900, as well as tax-free access to these funds. The same money invested in a taxable account would be valued at only $60,424 over the same period.

If you would like to receive a free report on these and other benefits of investing in a Roth IRA, call my office at 564-9371 (outside Chicagoland (800) 542-8289.) You can also write to me at 601 Skokie Blvd., Ste. 504, Northbrook, IL 60062.—By David Hennings

Kevin's Towing, Inc. receives national service honor

Kevin's Towing, Inc. from Waukegan, has received the prestigious American Towman ACE Award for achievement in customer service excellence. Recipients were nominated by the nation's major motor clubs, including: Allstate Motor Club, Cross Country Motor Club, Emergency Road Service Inc., Oracle and The Signature Group.

The coveted ACE award reflects reliability, customer service excellence, and on-time performance. ACE recipients rank in the top one percent of the towing industry's service providers. The award was sponsored by The Signature Group and presented by American Towman Magazine.

A total of 150 ACE Awards, commemorated by an original design belt buckle, featuring a torch and tow hook, were presented to the nation's top towing professionals at a festive reception at the Baltimore Convention Center in Baltimore, Md. The affair took place on Nov. 7, at the American Towman Exposition. The award winners and their guests, who came from across the nation, enjoyed a Bull Roast after the ceremony, joined by another 2,000 Exposition Attendees.

 Know what you need to know. You need information to move your firm to the next level. What you do is not as important as knowing what really needs to be done.

Successful owners who keep moving up spend more time thinking and less time doing. It's a normal part of taking it to the next level.

FINANCIAL FOCUS

Ask your lawyer about a power of attorney

Suppose you were going away on an extended trip and wanted someone else — your accountant or a grown child, for example — to handle your investments while you were away. Would your broker let them?

Probably not without a power of attor-

A power of attorney (POA) is a document that allows you to authorize someone else to act on your behalf. POAs are used frequently — for example, to allow spouses to conduct business for each other, or adult children to handle their older parents' finances. The examples are endless.

POAs are legal documents that should be drafted with guidance from an attorney. The attorney can ensure that you clearly specify what act(s) the POA is designed to accomplish.

In a POA, the person giving the authority is the principal, and the authorized person is the agent, POA and/or attorney-infact. Common transactions between agents and brokerage firms include purchases, sales, gifts and loans. POAs give agents fiduciary duty to act in the principal's best interests and make decisions that are reasonably prudent and suitable for the principal.

Most POAs give agents general authority to make purchases for the principal. Securities purchases, due to their increased risk, need specific POA language authorizing the added risk. Transfers and gifts that change ownership of property require even more specific language.

Many transfer agents accept general language, such as "the power to sell, assign and transfer securities." However, some transfer agents may find such general language unacceptable. Therefore, it's to your benefit to be as specific as possible in describing the powers granted by your POA. Avoid blanket POAs that give your agent unlimited discretion.

In most states there is no automatic expiration date on POAs. However, it's best to write them to expire at a specific time. For POAs older than one year, brokers typically are required to certify that the principal is alive and the POA remains in effect. POAs are not valid after the principal dies. However, most POAs today are drafted as "durable," meaning they remain in effect even if the principal becomes mentally incompetent.

If you have a need for someone else to act on your behalf, see your lawyer about a power of attorney. Getting legal help can ensure that you don't give away the store.

doal with organizational quality of care issues and the safety of the environment in which care is provided. Anyone believing that he or she has pertinent and valid information about such matters may request a public information interview with the Joint Commission's field representatives at the time of the survey. Information presented at the interview will be carefully evaluated for relevance to the accreditation process. Requests for a public information interview must be made in writing and should be sent to the Joint Commission no later than five working days before the survey begins. The request must also indicate the nature of the information to be provided at the interview. Such requests should be addressed to:

How To Survive The Job Search By Nancy Sakol

Last week I dedicated my column to those questions that people constantly call to ask me and continually write to me about. Judging by the amount of telephone calls that I received asking for more, I have decided to continue on...and so...

Q: Should I be cautious when sending in my resume to a post office box with no company name?

A: Beware!!! Sending your resume to a post office box can hold irreversible ramifications. For example...Recently it was brought to my attention, the story of the Graphic Designer who had come across the position in the paper for a Senior Graphic Designer paying sub-stantially more than his current salary. He then rushed to send in his resume only to be approached days later by a person in Human Resources asking to meet with him later that day. The meeting took place as planned and much to his surprise upon his arrival, he was greeted, as well, by his Manager. The long and short of it is that the resume that he had sent in went to a P.O. Box leased by none other than his company. His employment ended abruptly that afternoon when his employer realized he is obviously not satisfied with his current position. When sending your resume out that way, one never knows where it is to end up. The stories are too numerous to mention. Except to say that I have yet to hear any of those stories with an ounce of positive anything. My advice is to back off the P.O. Box. If not, you risk losing many things including your privacy. Don't allow yourself to unknowingly become a part of someone's data base in and out of several resume houses around the country. You never know where your resume is going to turn up!

Q: How long will it take me to find a job?

A: This question belongs with those unexplainable ponderous points...how long is long... how high is high and if the S.S. Minnow set out for a 3 hour tour, why did the Howell's bring luggage for a life-time? I will tell you however, that when a person comes through our employment agency, they have a better understanding of the job market and together with their counselor build a clear evaluation of where they want to be. This builds a strong foundation for obtaining goals. It is vitally important to feel comfortable with an employment counselor. They are the person you want to tell everything to relating to the job search. The amount of money you are expecting, the location you wish you work, the benefits you desire etc... A strong counselor will guide you if they in fact feel that you are unrealistic in your goals. For instance, requiring a $25,000 salary for a position paying $20,000 in today's market...well...then I suppose unless you are guided properly you may very well remain unemployed longer than you may have to

JIMINEY

The Jiminey has been designed to use the 2,233 square feet economically and wisely. This home has five bedrooms, a Great Room, a large master suite, and a den. This is a home that could be used equally well by a large family, a foster home care shelter, an elder care provider, or the retired couple with large families that

The pillared archway has ramp access for wheelchairs as well as stairs up to the front door. The entry has an alcove for a bench and a coat closet. Down the hall to the left is the sleeping area for kids or quests. Bedrooms 2 and 3 adjoin each other while a full bath separates 3 and 4. The utility room, next to bedroom 5, has a large counter and overhead storage.

Modern homes now use Great Rooms in place of family/dining/living rooms. The great room in the Jiminey is a perfect example with its high vaulted ceiling, built-in entertainment center, and covered patio access. Some advantages of a room so large is the openness, the ability to move furniture into many different places and combinations, but most of all, it allows all members to be near each other and share time together. Separated from the great room by a long eating bar, the kitchen has been created for a number of cooks to have room to move and to help out. There is a walk-in pantry for bulk storage. Located away from the other bedrooms, the vaulted master suite has its own private covered deck accessible through a patio door. It also features a wall closet equivalent to a walk-in closet. There are two vanity sinks, with a full bathroom featuring an enlarged shower. A den is a place of peace and quiet, a haven where one can escape. This den, which could also be used as an office, is conveniently located near the master suite. The entire demeanor of this home speaks of being a home for many. The covered decks and patios mean space for children to play or for adults to sit cut the weather. The large Great Room provides a meeting place for everyone. The numerous bedrooms could be set up as individual suites or as children's rooms.
